One Millionth Mourner Views Pope's Remains

Another Million Due To Pay Tribute in St. Peter's Basilica

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The millionth mourner passed by the body of Pope John XXIII today and still the human wave rolled through the vastness of St. Peter's Basilica.

Almost a million more were expected to pay tribute before the candle-lit catafalque under the massive basilica dome before Pope John's body is placed in a crypt below the basilica floor tonight.

Meanwhile, the church's cardinals were arriving for the final rites and the June 19 conclave that will elect a successor.

The College of Cardinals decreed Wednesday that a nine-day formal mourning period for Pope John will start Friday and end June 17. It will be broken for Sunday June 9 and for the Corpus Christi feast day June 13.

Funeral Masses on the first six days will be said in St. Peter's Basilica by canons of the church. On the last three days the Masses will be celebrated by cardinals.

The cardinals will attend a Mass of the Holy Ghost June 19, then go into conclave at sunset in the Sistine Chapel. Voting will begin June 20. The cardinals will cast four ballots daily in the locked chapel until two-thirds agree on a new Pope.

About 80 of the 82 cardinals are expected to be on hand for the conclave, the greatest number ever assembled to elect a Pope. When Pope John was elected in 1958, 52 cardinals took part in the balloting.

One absentee probably will be Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty, still in refuge in the U.S. legation in Budapest. One or two other cardinals may be too ill to travel.

Church leaders and statesmen from both sides of the Iron Curtain will attend the final funeral services.

President Kennedy named Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, a Protestant, and three others to represent the United States.

The others are James A. Farley of New York, former Democratic national chairman and postmaster general, George N. Shuster, former editor of the Catholic magazine Commonwealth, and the Rev. Benjamin Mays, a Baptist Negro and president of Morehouse College at Atlanta, Ga. Farley is a Catholic.

A spokesman for the Russian Orthodox Church announced in Moscow that a representative will attend the services, but the name was not announced.

'Hot Line' Details OK'd

GENEVA (AP)—U.S. and Soviet negotiators have agreed on all technical details of a hot line teletype writer circuit between Washington and Moscow, disarmament conference sources said today.

The agreement was reached after 18 private meetings of American and Soviet telecommunication experts between May 6 and June 4.

Conference sources said the U.S. government has approved the agreement, but formal approval from the Soviet government still is awaited.

The agreement provides for a permanent teletype writer cable linking the American and Soviet governments. It will be used for emergency contacts to prevent a possible outbreak of war by accident or miscalculation.

Commercial Point Hit Hard

Violent Spring Storm Rocks County; Rainfall Is Heavy

BOTTOMS UP—Pickaway County Deputy Sheriffs Warren Straley (left) and Gene Kerns look at the trailer home occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hemphill and four children of near Commercial Point. Winds yesterday evening rolled the trailer 125-feet. Slight damage was inflicted on the 32-inch woven wire fence in the foreground, indicating the trailer was probably completely in the air when it passed over it. (Photo by Beaver Studio)

Nearly two inches of rain drenched the Circleville and Pickaway County area during a storm accompanied by 55 mile an hour winds yesterday evening.

An official 1.91 inches of rainfall were recorded here during the storm which caused instant flooding of small streams. Many storm sewers were unable to carry the heavy downpour and streets in several sections of the city were momentarily flooded.

A 50-foot house trailer, with its occupants still inside, was hurled 125-feet shortly after 6 p. m. by high winds near Commercial Point.

Receiving only minor injuries were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hemphill and their four children. The trailer was demolished.

***
ACCORDING to reports received by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department, Mr. Hemphill was thrown clear of the trailer.

The two younger children—11-year-old and one-year-old Walter Jr.—were in bed when the winds hit. They survived the sudden upheaval by being sandwiched between two mattresses. Mrs. Hemphill was struck in the head and knocked unconscious.

Taken to Mt. Carmel Hospital, Columbus where they received treatment and were released were Mr. and Mrs. Hemphill and the two younger children. Treated at the scene by the family doctor were Connie, 5, and Jean Ann, 4.

The damage to the trailer was apparently the only heavy destruction caused by the storm.

Southwestern Pickaway County reported only light showers and practically no wind or lightning and thunder according to Deputy Sheriff Warren Straley.

State Routes 104 and 762 were closed for a short period during the night until high waters in the area had receded.

Pickaway County Engineer Henry McCrady said although a number of washouts, particularly in the Commercial Point area, were reported, none seemed to be severe enough to warrant closing roads.

***

BOTH THE county and state highway departments set flares at a number of spots throughout the county. Homy Creek washed out a small portion of Route 56 where one-way traffic was being maintained today.

Damage to utilities, were minor, with only isolated areas or individuals reporting power failures. No lines or poles were reported down.

Officials at the General Telephone Co. here said only routine disruption of service was reported. Electric Co. officials said the majority of power outages were caused by damaged transformers.

Both the sheriff's department and the State Highway Patrol reported there were no traffic accidents during the storm.

Here are some estimates:

The Jan. 1, 1963, Social Security tax increase, long provided for in existing law, is expected to take a bit more than $2 billion in payments by employers and employees this year.

If the further increase proposed by Mills is enacted to ward off a feared deficiency in the disability benefit fund of Social Security it will cost about $500 million more in its first full year. It would apply payroll taxes to the first $5,400, instead of $4,800, of earnings.

Another automatic Social Security tax increase comes Jan. 1, 1965, and another one two years later. If the economy continues to grow, each of these will cost something more than $2 billion since they will be levied on a bigger base.

But by the same token, reduced rates on income such as Kennedy proposes would amount to a bigger than $10-billion tax cut in future years because they, too, would apply to a bigger base.

The Republican position was hammered out Wednesday at the second of two conferences promoted by Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York, an ardent supporter of civil rights legislation.

No agreement was reached at the initial two-hour meeting. Then, at the end of a three-hour session in late afternoon, the Republicans approved a statement saying they will "support further appropriate legislation required to help solve the problems of our nation in the field of civil rights."

Not all the 33 Republican senators attended the closed meetings—the exact number present could not be determined—and Sen. Everett S. Long of Massachusetts, chairman of the conference said there was some division on adopting the statement.

"I couldn't say it was unanimous," he said, "but I can truthfully say I am confident the yes carried it."

Approved by voice vote, the policy statement is not binding on the GOP senators, he said.

U.S. Shuns Cuba Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department has rejected Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro's suggestion for U.S.-Cuba talks. The Kennedy administration "has made it clear that communism in this hemisphere is not negotiable."

The examiner's report said the scope of the photostat service ranged from the copying of such legal documents as deeds, leases, financial statements, chattel mortgages and powers of attorney, to sheet music and birth certificates.

JFK Ties Civil Strife To Lack of Education

Meredith Back At Ole Miss

Second Negro Enters University Quietly

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—The first known Negro to attend the University of Mississippi, James H. Meredith, returned for the summer term today—a day after the quiet enrollment of a second Negro.

Meanwhile, Cleve McDowell, 21-year-old Drew, Miss., Negro, entered the Ole Miss law school Wednesday and spent his first day on campus without incident.

Police and soldiers were at alert as the smiling McDowell went through routine registration and entrance requirements.

All went smoothly after Gov. Ross R. Barnett told a television audience that McDowell was to be accepted only because Mississippi couldn't whip the U.S. Army.

"It would be unwise and futile," said the governor, who had unsuccessfully attempted to block Meredith's admission last fall.

"We have done everything in our power to prevent the enrollment of Cleve McDowell in the university law school," said Barnett. "His entry is in violation of the laws of the state and is contrary to the wishes and order of the Board of Trustees, of the institutions of higher learning and the governor and the people."

"I have not heard one rude remark," McDowell, wearing a checked sports jacket and a new thin moustache, told a press conference after he was registered. "I think this registration was carried out quite well," he added. "There is evidence someone did a lot of work."

McDowell paid fees totaling $179 with a $500 check from the Utility Club, Inc., of New York City. The club was not further identified.

McDowell won admission to the university in a court fight that came after the state Board of Institutions of Higher Learning rejected his application on the grounds that his enrollment might cause "unrest."

U. S. District Judge Sidney Mize, sitting in Biloxi, ruled McDowell qualified and issued an injunction barring the board or other officials from interfering with his admission.

At 92, She Lacks Permit

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Lillian Tenney, who is 92 and a motorist, plans to talk with traffic officials about her lack of a driver's license.

She has been driving horses and cars for 70 years and says all this fuss over her driving status is a lot of folderol. She has a collection of nine unpaid citations and court officials aren't sure what to do.

You simply can't go out and arrest a 92-year-old woman and you can't have her breaking the law either, said Richard Brinker, court clerk.

"Why, I am an expert, unusually fine driver," said Mrs. Tenney, who uses a crutch. "People simply keep running into me."

The young policemen who frequently give her traffic tickets are very nice, said Mrs. Tenney, who lives alone. "Sometimes we chat, and they ask me how old I am. And they always thank me and give me a ticket."

Mother Misses 2nd Son's Honor

BURRILLVILLE, R.I. (AP)—A Rhode Island mother saw one son graduated from the Coast Guard Academy at New London, Conn., Wednesday but was too late to see a second son graduated from the U.S. Military Academy at West Point N.Y.

Lt. Gen. Garrison H. Davidson, commanding the First Army, made one of his planes available to Mrs. Margaret Shepard of Burrillville. But fog at Groton, Conn., delayed the plane's takeoff so that Mrs. Shepard missed the West Point commencement.

Mrs. Shepard and her newly commissioned son, Coast Guard Ens. Arthur B. Shepard arrived at West Point in time to congratulate new Army 2d Lt. John T. Shepard.

Mach 3 Airliner Seen as U.S. Goal

NEW YORK (AP)—The finish line is a long way ahead in the international race for a commercial air transport that will whiz across the Atlantic Ocean in two or three hours.

The United States or the Soviet Union may put a man on the moon before supersonic airliners start flying.

But at least the United States officially is in the running, put there—somewhat belatedly—by President Kennedy's declaration of American will to go ahead with supersonic air transport development.

The presidential announcement in Colorado came less than 24 hours after Pan American World Airways ordered six of the super-sonic planes that France and Great Britain are preparing to produce jointly.

The order caused jubilation in Paris and London where officials viewed it as a strategic boost to their drive to challenge U.S. superiority in the commercial aircraft field.

In turn, word of the Kennedy decision was cheered by plane builders here, and by Trans World Airlines, Pan Am's chief U.S. competitor on overseas routes.

Although the President didn't say so specifically, the U.S. is expected to shoot for a plane that will fly 2,000 miles an hour or faster—Mach 3, or more than three times the speed of sound.

Costs have been estimated at upwards of $1 billion and, Kennedy said, will require government subsidy.

The projected British-French "Concorde" aims at roughly 1,500 miles an hour. The two nations have pooled $500 million for their effort.

Kennedy talked of getting the American model into service by 1969 or before, although some experts believe 1971 or 1972 is closer to probability. "Concorde" deliveries have been promised in 1968. This also has been questioned.

For one thing, the Mach 3 craft would have to be made of steel and titanium, instead of the conventional aluminum deemed suitable for the slower Mach 2, because of frictional heat considerations.

Douglas Aircraft Co. engineers have estimated external temperatures of the aircraft skin will range up to 600 degrees Fahrenheit. The cabin and fuel tanks would have to be insulated.

Although there was speculation in Paris that the Pan Am order might stampede other airlines into buying the "Concorde" without waiting for an American model, it found no immediate confirmation here.

No price was mentioned in Pan

Baby Sitters Available for Blood Visit

A baby sitting service will be available tomorrow during the visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile at the First Methodist Church.

Members of the newly organized "Volunteers," a volunteer group, will be on hand to care for children of donors and to perform other services at the canteen, according to Mrs. Roloff Wolford, executive secretary of the local Red Cross unit.

All prospective donors between the ages of 18 and 60 are urged to visit the Bloodmobile between 11 a. m. and 5 p. m. Those under 21 and unmarried must have written consent from a parent or guardian before donations will be accepted.

Transportation will also be provided to and from the Bloodmobile by calling GR 4-3709.

MRS. Wolford said the Blood Program Committee is making a special effort to insure a successful visit. Pickaway Countians have been receiving more blood than has been replaced during the past several months, she added.

Appointments may be made by calling the Red Cross offices at GR 4-3736.

U.S. Schooling Said Inadequate

PRESIDENT Kennedy, plugging hard today for his aid to education program, linked educational backwardness with the mounting civil rights problem.

Citing an array of statistics, Kennedy argued that the quality of American education is inadequate, that the educational system cannot cope with tomorrow's demands—and that Negroes suffer most from shortcomings in the system.

In a major address at commencement exercises at San Diego State College, Kennedy said:

"The time has come for the American people of every party and section to realize the immensity and the necessity of this challenge—to realize that no solution will please everyone—and to mobilize their aroused support behind a program such as the one I have sent to the Congress."

Kennedy said he was aware of objections "raised for more than 50 years to any kind of federal effort in education."

He said these involve state's rights and civil rights, race and religion.

But, he said it is time to put such factors aside and deal directly with the problem.

Speaking directly to the San Diego graduates, Kennedy said, "I hope that those of you who have received the blessings of education will be in the forefront of that fight."

Kennedy flew to San Diego from El Paso, Tex., and visited the state college before flying to Navy aircraft carrier offshore to spend the night and witness Navy maneuvers in the Pacific. This was the second day of his five-day, five-state tour which will take him as far west as Hawaii before he returns to Washington early Monday morning.

In his talk the chief executive said the nation's education goal must be "a system in which every child, whether born a banker's son in a Long Island mansion, or an Alabama sharecropper's son in an Alabama cotton field, has every opportunity for an education that his abilities and character deserve."

He said the nation must recognize that segregation in education means serious handicaps to a large portion of the population.

"And," he said, "I mean the de facto segregation of the North as well as the proclaimed segregation of the South."

In challenging the adequacy of the American educational system, Kennedy said that of all Americans 18 years of age or older, more than 3 million have had less than eight years of schooling while more than 8 million have never passed the fifth grade.

California Boy Maps Strategy For Meeting with President

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Joey Renzi felt it would have been meaningless for him to stand on a street curb and cheer or wave as President Kennedy passed in a motorcade during his visit today.

Joey, who is 11, is blind. He had to touch—to shake the President's hand.

He wrote the President last month, in braille: "It would be a great honor, Mr. President if I could shake your hand, because I cannot see."

Joey's hopes weren't high. But a Secret Service agent came to Joey's home to tell him he could meet the President.

Since that day, he's carefully thought out the event, what he'll say and what the President might say.

"How it happens is plenty important because I'll be passing it along to my grandsons," he said. He thinks it will go about like this:

"I'll go to the Marine Corps recruit depot with my parents and two brothers, Johnny, 9, and Jimmy, 5. When the time comes to meet the President, Johnny will lead me to the right spot—while Jimmy and Mom and Dad look on."

"We'll shake hands and say 'Hello' and then he'll probably ask me a couple of questions, maybe something about how school is going, or about my ambition to be a scientist."

"I'll say 'Yes, sir, Mr. President'—being careful not to forget the title."

For Joey, who has been blind since incubator oxygen caused his eyes to hemorrhage shortly after birth, the meeting will cap a perfect day. An honor student and past president of his elementary school—where he is the only blind student in his room—Joey will also receive his novice permit to operate a "ham" radio today.

He is the son of a Navy enlisted man, Alfred Renzi.

Superrocket Is Envisioned By Experts

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—A new generation of superrockets, capable of lifting a "convoy" of four multiple spaceships into orbit could be ready for a manned expedition to Mars in 1975 if the nation decided to make a try then, an industrial space technologist said today.

The rockets, far surpassing anything the United States and presumably even the Soviet Union now has or is developing, would each range up to 280 feet in height weigh up to nearly 40 million pounds, pack thrusts up to 56 million pounds, and be capable of lofting more than a million pounds of payload at a time into earth orbit for a subsequent getaway on the highway to Mars.

Andrew Kalitinsky of the General Dynamics Corp., San Diego, Calif., told about it in making the first report on a government-commissioned study to explore possibilities for developing so-called NOVA launch vehicles.

NOVA has long been a concept in the minds of space engineers. Conceived as a possible good bet for manned planetary missions, it would call for a rocket that would make even the Saturn 5 man-to-moon rocket look puny. The Saturn 5 will pack a 7½-million pound thrust.

County Recorder Named in Finding

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State Auditor Roger W. Tracy received an examiner's report today disclosing a finding for recovery of $414.18 from Mrs. Dorothy L. Rohe, Knox County recorder.

The report said the finding came from an examination of the recorder's operation from July 1, 1960 through May 6, 1963, and resulted from a photostat business operated by the recorder, according to the report "at the expense of the taxpayers of Knox County."

The examiner's report said the scope of the photostat service ranged from the copying of legal documents as deeds, leases, financial statements, chattel mortgages and powers of attorney, to sheet music and birth certificates.

Mach 3 Airliner Seen as U.S. Goal

NEW YORK (AP)—The finish line is a long way ahead in the international race for a commercial air transport that will whiz across the Atlantic Ocean in two or three hours.

The United States or the Soviet Union may put a man on the moon before supersonic airliners start flying.

But at least the United States officially is in the running, put there—somewhat belatedly—by President Kennedy's declaration of American will to go ahead with supersonic air transport development.

The presidential announcement in Colorado came less than 24 hours after Pan American World Airways ordered six of the supersonic planes that France and Great Britain are preparing to produce jointly.

The order caused jubilation in Paris and London where officials viewed it as a strategic boost to their drive to challenge U.S. superiority in the commercial aircraft field.

In turn, word of the Kennedy decision was cheered by plane builders here, and by Trans World Airlines, Pan Am's chief U.S. competitor on overseas routes.

Although the President didn't say so specifically, the U.S. is expected to shoot for a plane that will fly 2,000 miles an hour or faster—Mach 3, or more than three times the speed of sound.

Costs have been estimated at upwards of $1 billion and, Kennedy said, will require government subsidy.

The projected British-French "Concorde" aims at roughly 1,500 miles an hour. The two nations have pooled $500 million for their effort.

Kennedy talked of getting the American model into service by 1969 or before, although some experts believe 1971 or 1972 is closer to probability. "Concorde" deliveries have been promised in 1968. This also has been questioned.

For one thing, the Mach 3 craft would have to be made of steel and titanium, instead of the conventional aluminum deemed suitable for the slower Mach 2, because of frictional heat considerations.

Douglas Aircraft Co. engineers have estimated external temperatures of the aircraft skin will range up to 600 degrees Fahrenheit. The cabin and fuel tanks would have to be insulated.

Although there was speculation in Paris that the Pan Am order might stampede other airlines into buying the "Concorde" without waiting for an American model, it found no immediate confirmation here.

No price was mentioned in Pan

Baby Sitters Available for Blood Visit

A baby sitting service will be available tomorrow during the visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile at the First Methodist Church.

Members of the newly organized "Volunteers," a volunteer group, will be on hand to care for children of donors and to perform other services at the canteen, according to Mrs. Roloff Woldoff, executive secretary of the local Red Cross unit.

All prospective donors between the ages of 18 and 60 are urged to visit the Bloodmobile between 11 a. m. and 5 p. m. Those under 21 and unmarried must have written consent from a parent or guardian before donations will be accepted.

Transportation will also be provided to and from the Bloodmobile by calling GR 4-5709.

MRS. Woldoff said the Blood Program Committee is making a special effort to insure a successful visit. Pickaway Countians have been receiving more blood than has been replaced during the past several months, she added.

Appointments may be made by calling the Red Cross offices at GR 4-5736.

U.S. Schooling Said Inadequate

President Points Out Immensity of Challenge

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—President Kennedy, plugging hard today for his aid to education program, linked educational backwardness with the mounting civil rights problem.

Citing an array of statistics, Kennedy argued that the quality of American education is inadequate, that the educational system cannot cope with tomorrow's demands—and that Negroes suffer most from shortcomings in the system.

In a major address at commencement exercises at San Diego State College, Kennedy said: "The time has come for the American people of every party and section to realize the immensity and the necessity of this challenge—to realize that no solution will please everyone—and to mobilize their aroused support behind a program such as the one I have sent to the Congress."

Kennedy said he was aware of objections "raised for more than 50 years to any kind of federal effort in education."

He said these involve state's rights and civil rights, race and religion.

But, he said it is time to put such factors aside and deal directly with the problem.

Speaking directly to the San Diego graduates, Kennedy said, "I hope that those of you who have received the blessings of education will be in the forefront of that fight."

Kennedy flew to San Diego from El Paso, Tex., and visited the state college before flying to Navy aircraft carrier offshore to spend the night and witness Navy maneuvers in the Pacific. This was the second day of his five-day, five-state tour which will take him as far west as Hawaii before he returns to Washington early Monday morning.

In his talk the chief executive said the nation's education goal must be "a system in which every child, whether born a banker's son in a Long Island mansion, or a Negro sharecropper's son in an Alabama cotton field, has every opportunity for an education that his abilities and character deserve."

He said the nation must recognize that segregation in education means serious handicaps to a large portion of the population.

"And," he said, "I mean the de facto segregation of the North as well as the proclaimed segregation of the South."

In challenging the adequacy of the American educational system, Kennedy said that of all Americans 18 years of age or older, more than 3 million have had less than eight years of schooling while more than 8 million have never passed the fifth grade.

California Boy Maps Strategy For Meeting with President

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Joey Renzi felt it would have been meaningless for him to stand on a street curb and cheer or wave as President Kennedy passed in a motorcade during his visit today.

Joey, who is 11, is blind. He had to touch—to shake the President's hand.

He wrote the President last month, in braille: "It would be a great honor, Mr. President if I could shake your hand, because I cannot see."

Joey's hopes weren't high. But a Secret Service agent came to Joey's home to tell him he could meet the President.

Since that day, he's carefully thought out the event, what he'll say and what the President might say.

"How it happens is plenty important because I'll be passing it along to my grandsons," he said. He thinks it will go about like this:

"I'll go to the Marine Corps recruit depot with my parents and two brothers, Johnny, 9, and Jimmy, 5. When the time comes to meet the President, Johnny will lead me to the right spot—while Jimmy and Mom and Dad look on."

"We'll shake hands and say 'Hello' and then he'll probably ask me a couple of questions, maybe something about how school is going, or about my ambition to be a scientist."

"I'll say 'Yes, s'r, Mr. President'—being careful not to forget the title."

For Joey, who has been blind since incubator oxygen caused his eyes to hemorrhage shortly after birth, the meeting will cap a perfect day. An honor student and past president of his elementary school—where he is the only blind student in his room—Joey will also receive his novice permit to operate a "ham" radio today.

He is the son of a Navy enlisted man, Alfred Renzi.

U.S. Military Mission Hit By Venezuelan Pro-Red Thugs

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Pro-Communist terrorists made good Wednesday night on their threat to destroy the headquarters of the U.S. Military Mission in Caracas.

Eight gunmen overpowered a Venezuelan guard at the building entrance, forced 12 mission employees to take off their clothes, splashed gasoline on the building and set it afire.

The headquarters, an old Spanish colonial building in the fashionable country club section, was ruined. The mission's records were destroyed. None of the mission personnel was harmed.

Gunmen screamed "Yankos Imperialists" at the Americans and smeared walls with their identifying letters, FALN, the Armed Forces for National Liberation.

The FALN, trying to topple the government by force, is made up mostly of Communists but is led by former conservative army officers opposed to President Romulo Betancourt, the government says.

The FALN engaged in attacks and sabotage against government and business installations with daily regularity until they offered a truce last month in an attempt to win re-instatement of the Venezuelan Communist party. Betancourt was adamant against letting Communists participate in presidential elections in November.

The attack Wednesday night was the first since the FALN's peace offer. A U.S. spokesman said the mission had received numerous anonymous telephone threats that it was marked for destruction because it helps train the Venezuelan armed forces. A telephone call Wednesday night to the newspaper El Universal said the U.S. installation would be burned immediately after a period of mourning for Pope John XXIII ended at 6 p. m. The terrorists struck at 7 p. m. One was dressed in the uniform of a Venezuelan army officer, six wore uniforms of Venezuelan soldiers and one was in civilian clothes.

They surprised four Venezuelan national guardsmen and lined them up inside with three U.S. Army officers, four U.S. Army sergeants, two Venezuelan civilian employees and the son of an Army officer.

They forced all to strip except Col. J. K. Chenuat, 46, deputy chief of the mission, and his 15-year-old son.

Chenuat and the other officers, identified as Maj. T. C. Blevins and Maj. B. Gardner, were not armed.

The terrorists, armed with pistols, fled with the U.S. uniforms, the Venezuelan guards' four sub-machine guns, an army pistol, and the men's rings and watches.

Warren Girl's Aunt Found Guilty in Mistreatment Trial

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — The aunt of a 19-year-old girl has been convicted of mistreating her niece, climaxing a week-long trial in Municipal Court.

Mrs. Richard Carr, the defendant, collapsed from emotional strain moments before the jury announced its verdict Wednesday after deliberating for more than six hours. A doctor revived her in time to hear the verdict.

Judge James A. Ravella deferred sentence when defense counsel John Spain indicated he would file a motion for a new trial. Mrs. Carr, who could be sentenced to a maximum of six months in jail and fined $200, remained free on $1,500 bond.

The girl, Frances Jean Carr, also accused her father of cruel treatment while they spent five months at the aunt's home in Warren Township. He is awaiting trial.

Frances had testified the father and aunt fed her meagerly and confined her for long periods in a saddlebox and a metal cabinet and that they tied her with rope in a cellar. She also testified that other forms of punishment, such as locking her in an unheated shed, were inflicted upon her. The punishment she said, sometimes was for the way she did housework.

Referring to defense testimony that the girl had an abnormal mind, City Prosecutor John King asserted:

"Even if Miss Carr might be mentally handicapped, that did not give anyone the right to inflict cruelties."

Frances was hospitalized March 12, suffering from frostbite and

Car Authorized For Infirmary

The Pickaway County Board of Commissioners has authorized the purchase of a new car for the County Infirmary.

The sedan will be purchased from Kenny Hannan Ford. Terms of the purchase call for the trade-in of a 1958 model station wagon now being used by the infirmary. Delivery of the new vehicle is scheduled in about two weeks.

Equalizing Board Member Resigns

Another member of an equalizing board named here to objections on Circleville's Sanitary Sewer District No. 2 has resigned.

Donald Mason announced his resignation yesterday. He said his obligations make it impossible to serve on the panel.

The equalizing board met yesterday in Council Chambers with about 30 objectors. However, no settlements were reached.

Indications are a new member of the board must be named to succeed Mason. The law requires three members.

U.S. Military Mission Hit By Venezuelan Pro-Red Thugs

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Pro-Communist terrorists made good Wednesday night on their threat to destroy the headquarters of the U.S. Military Mission in Caracas.

Eight gunmen overpowered a Venezuelan guard at the building entrance, forced 12 mission employees to take off their clothes, splashed gasoline on the building and set it afire.

The headquarters, an old Spanish colonial building in the fashionable country club section, was ruined. The mission's records were destroyed. None of the mission personnel was harmed.

The attack Wednesday night was the first since the FALN's peace offer.

A U.S. spokesman said the mission had received numerous anonymous telephone threats that it was marked for destruction because it helps train the Venezuelan armed forces.

A telephone call Wednesday night to the newspaper El Universal said the U.S. installation would be burned immediately after a period of mourning for Pope John XXIII ended at 6 p. m.

The terrorists struck at 7 p. m. One was dressed in the uniform of a Venezuelan army officer, six wore uniforms of Venezuelan soldiers and one was in civilian clothes. They surprised four Venezuelan national guardsmen and lined them up inside with three U.S. Army officers, four U.S. Army sergeants, two Venezuelan civilian employees and the son of an Army officer.

Poland, Cuba Agree To Scientific Exchange

WARSAW (AP) — Poland and Cuba have decided to exchange scientists and scientific information. The agreement announced Tuesday, will go through 1968.

Cuban scholars will come to Warsaw for a year of study while Polish scientists will lecture and do research work in Cuba.

Gunmen screamed "Yankee Imperialists" at the Americans and smeared walls with their identifying letters, FALN, the Armed Forces for National Liberation.

The FALN, trying to topple the government by force, is made up mostly of Communists but is led by former conservative army officers opposed to President Romulo Betancourt, the government says.

The FALN engaged in attacks and sabotage against government and business installations with daily regularity until they offered a truce last month in an attempt to win re-instatement of the Venezuelan Communist party. Betancourt was adamant against letting Communists participate in presidential elections in November.

The attack Wednesday night was the first since the FALN's peace offer.

They forced all to strip except Col. J. K. Chenuat, 46, deputy chief of the mission, and his 15-year-old son.

Chenuat and the other officers, identified as Maj. T. C. Blevins and Maj. B. Gardner, were not armed.

The terrorists, armed with pistols, fled with the U.S. uniforms, the Venezuelan guards' four sub-machine guns, an army pistol, and the men's rings and watches.

Warren Girl's Aunt Found Guilty in Mistreatment Trial

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — The aunt of a 19-year-old girl has been convicted of mistreating her niece, climaxing a week-long trial in Municipal Court.

Mrs. Richard Carr, the defendant, collapsed from emotional strain moments before the jury announced its verdict Wednesday after deliberating for more than six hours. A doctor revived her in time to hear the verdict.

Judge James A. Ravella deferred sentence when defense counsel John Spain indicated he would file a motion for a new trial. Mrs. Carr, who could be sentenced to a maximum of six months in jail and fined $200, remained free on $1,500 bond.

The girl, Frances Jean Carr, also accused her father of cruel treatment while she spent five months at the aunt's home in Warren Township. He is awaiting trial.

Frances had testified the father and aunt fed her meagerly and confined her for long periods in a saddlebox and a metal cabinet and that they tied her with rope in a cellar. She also testified that other forms of punishment, such as locking her in an unheated shed, were inflicted upon her. The punishment she said, sometimes was for the way she did housework.

Referring to defense testimony that the girl had an abnormal mind, City Prosecutor John King asserted:

"Even if Miss Carr might be mentally handicapped, that did not give anyone the right to inflict cruelties."

Frances was hospitalized March 12, suffering from frostbite and malnutrition. She said she escaped from a shed where she had been locked up by the aunt and her father. She weighed only 78 pounds, compared with 136 a year earlier, sheriff's deputies said. Parts of two of her toes were amputated because they were frostbitten.

The girl, whose mother is dead, has been living with her sister, Mrs. Donna Ainsley of Cortland, since her release from the hospital.

So Long as Man Remembers

About a year from now, tall-rigged sailing ships flying the flags of 11 seafaring nations will be New York-bound, via Bermuda. From Bermuda it will be a race the like of which has not been seen in our time and isn't likely to be seen again.

It all comes under the heading "Operation Sail 1964" and should be an exciting sidelight of the World's Fair in Flushing Meadows.

The contrast between the space age exhibits in Flushing Meadows and the old sailing ships offshore should add useful perspective to the fair. For without the age of sail and its incentive to exploration, both geographic and scientific, man would not likely be embarking upon his current adventures into space.

It is good to be reminded, as those simple old sailing ships are bound to remind us, that this complex age had simple beginnings.

The basic truths of that simpler era have not changed, and so long as man remembers this, he will know that he has not lost his path.

Lack of Evaluation

Since the Cuban crisis broke with such suddenness last October people have wondered how the Soviet Union could have achieved its massive buildup without being detected.

The fact is the buildup was watched. And a report by the Senate Preparedness subcommittee says U. S. intelligence services did a reasonably competent job gathering information on it.

The failure, according to the senatorial inquiry, lay in evaluation. This the committee attributes to the 'predisposition of the intelligence community to the philosophical conviction that it would be incompatible with Soviet policy to introduce strategic missiles into Cuba.'

It seems incredible there could be anyone in responsible office naive enough to believe the Kremlin wouldn't. If he hasn't done so already, President Kennedy should proceed to relieve the intelligence community of its starry-eyed members.

The Strenuous Life

Only yesterday it was an article of faith that we had become a sedentary population, addicted to sitting in the bleachers while a few special performers such as Willie Mays and Mickey Vernon and the last Ernie Davis did the hard work of using their muscles. The cliché about our passivity was part of the standard kit of almost every intellectual who liked to indulge in the sport of America-baiting.

Well, certain statistics collected and released recently by various associations have killed the cliché faster than a fence post. The National Recreation Association says there are 7,500,000 softball players and 3,000,000 volleyball players at large and practicing their skills. The American Camping Association comes up with the statistic that 36,000,000 people engage in recreational boating, with 7,000,000 of them owning their own craft. The National Golf Foundation informs us that some 4,000,000 persons play an average of fifteen rounds of golf a year.

All of these millions have been testing their physical reflexes and getting into the open air while the White House has been entertaining the idea that nobody has any muscles any more. Maybe the 4,000,000 golfers won't walk fifty miles a day per person in the course of whacking a ball about the links, but most of them do get around without using those power go-carts that are in favor with septuagenarians who still like to use an iron.

The only place, in fact, where the cult of personal strenuousness has not taken hold is with that curious breed of parent that has high ambitions for their young in things like ballet, modern dance and figure skating. As the husband of a modern dance teacher and the father of a couple of figure-skating daughters, I see a good deal of the sort of parents who are tyrannical about enforcing discipline on their kids while they grow softer themselves by the hour. My preaching instinct always prompts me to tell them to get out there and dance or skate themselves. The other day, going home by train from a spring ice skating session at New York's Madison Square Garden, I found myself moved to this exhortation:

The mothers sit by the side of the rink
Watching the little girls skate.
The mothers drop their stitches at the ballet school
To follow the clean curve of the arabesque.
What do the mothers think of as the young knees turn out
In spread-eagle or fifth position?
The daughters, they think to themselves, shall never grow old.

The shoulders slumped, the pelvic bones slanted to earth,
The diaphragm a dead weight on the stomach.
The world, they say, shall be recreated
In the strong, vibrant flesh of the young.

But the daughters, seeing the mothers in the stands of the rink,
Or knitting in the chairs at the ballet school,
Absorb the pattern of a crazy race.
Skating and dancing, they say to themselves
Are things for the young, to be put away with age.
And so the mothers are robbed

of their vision
Of a race purged and renewed in the young.

The young grow old by example, become mothers in their turn. Sitting by the side of the rink or the ballet dancing class,

The lapsed pelvic bones pressing inerti into the thighs,
The hips buried in flesh.

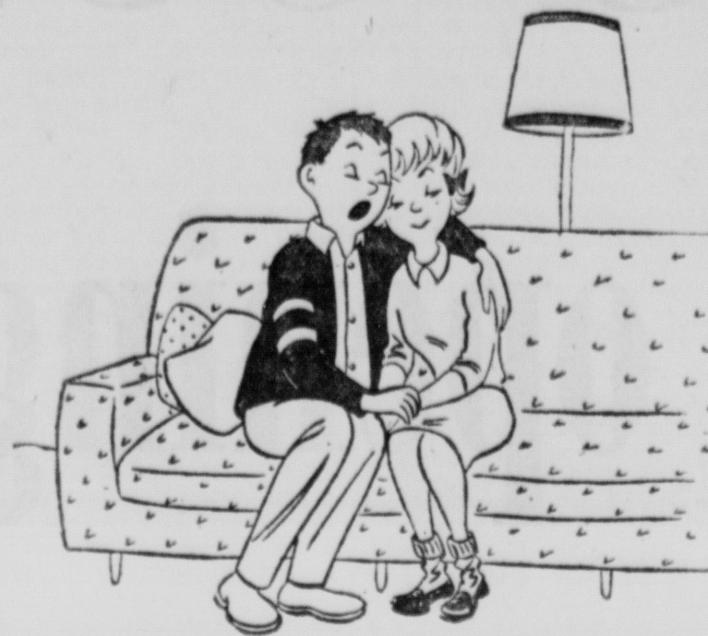

Only the teacher remains young, a licensed libertine of sanity.
O crazy race,
When will it let the mothers dance

For joy of being with the young?
When will it make the children sit a while Waiting their turn with the teacher.

Absorbing the knowledge that age is not a state of burden,
A time of toneless muscles and lapsed bones?
Why should the teacher alone be permitted
The gift of sanity in a world gone mad?

I don't claim much for the foregoing as free verse. But let it stand as this columnist's contribution to the drive of the brothers Kennedy to get everybody up and doing something. If we had a ninety or a ninety-five per cent national statistic of athletic participation, think of the money we'd save on sleeping pills, tranquilizers and bills for psychiatric treatment.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

HARPO MARX once went down to the Pasadena railroad station to see a non-plane-riding friend off for the East.

He was engaging in some characteristic clowning on the platform when he noticed two prissy old ladies gazing at him with undisguised horror from the diner of the train his friend was boarding. Impulsively, Harpo jumped aboard, rushed up to the women's table, sprinkled salt on their menu and gulped it down.

The women did not react as he expected. One of them calmly summoned the steward and commanded, "Kindly give us another menu. This person has eaten ours."

The irascible head man in a big industrial combine has a personal secretary who is invaluable—but also is an inveterate stutterer. This failing often drives the head man to distraction. One morning he exploded, "Tompkins, I've just conceived a wonderful plan to cure your stuttering." "W-w-what is it?" asked the secretary eagerly. The head man snapped, "Just keep that big mouth of yours shut!"

"How true," sighed George Jessel the other evening, "that behind every successful man there stands a woman—with her attorney."

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP)—Debt totals are rising on all fronts. Individual Americans are pushing their private debt load to new highs even as their various governments are.

Corporate debt has risen more moderately, largely because many companies have had more than the usual amount of cash on hand to finance their activities. But if expansion gets up steam in a new business upturn, they too may be borrowing more.

The role that debt may be playing in the rising volume of stock trading also is being watched. And official curiosity about this will become more keen if the public is finally returning to the market after a long absence credited to disillusionment in the market crash of a year ago.

The present margin rules call for cash payment of 50 per cent, and the rest on credit. The margin was cut to 50 from 70 per cent last July when the markets were ailing.

The federal debt has pushed through the old legal ceiling of $305 billion. This was expected and Congress raised the ceiling to accommodate it. The legal limit may be jacked up still higher before the summer ends.

Debt totals of various state and local governments are expected to go on climbing because of the need for providing more services at once to growing and more demanding populations. Also a number of state legislatures have been reluctant this year to vote higher taxes requested by governors to pay for larger expenditures.

Individuals took on a record load of new installment debt in April and probably as much or more in May. More than $5 billion of new credit was extended in April, while repayment on old obligations came to $4.5 billion. The total outstanding rose to $49 billion. Adding single payment loans, charge accounts and service credit, the Federal Reserve Board figures total consumer credit as rising to $63.3 billion.

The biggest gain was in outstanding auto credit which hit $20.1 billion. This total seems sure to have risen again in May, since new car sales last month set a record for May of more than 700,000.

Mortgage credit also is rising. More homes are being started, as is usual in warm weather months.

The growing population is a cause. Another is easier mortgage terms being offered by many competing lending institutions whose available funds have risen since they raised their interest rates on savings.

Businessmen regard the rise in consumer debt as both a result of brightening economic conditions and a sign of still further improvement. If Americans are willing to take on more installment debt for new cars or appliances, producers and their suppliers will prosper. And they will be encouraged to increase output or modernize their plants, or build new ones.

Increasing government spending also puts more money into the economy, regardless of worries over meeting the debt later on.

And as long as the general economy is growing, and personal incomes are increasing, and total assets owned by individuals are also swelling, the rise in private and public debt is held by many economists and politicians to be a minor threat.

Business, government and families all increasingly operate on credit. The debt total rises. So does the wherewithal to meet it.

Comedienne Disavows Tragedy

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—It is accepted as show business gospel that in every comedian beats the heart of a hidden Hamlet.

But Nanette Fabray, one of the blithest comedienesses of our day, harbors no frustrated hopes of playing Lady MacBeth. No tragic tears for her, thank you.

"I adore light comedy," said Nan, who is winding up a nine-month role as First Lady in Irving Berlin's Broadway musical, "Mr. President," in which she is costarred with Robert Ryan.

"The only thing is that musical comedy is looked down on as a second-class citizen in the performing arts. Drama is considered the grand lady, the matriarch, of the theatrical world.

"Actually, I've found that most musical comedy performers can do a good job in drama. Look at Gertrude Lawrence, Mary Martin, Red Buttons. But the step the other way is rare.

"In the theater you have to start with drama. You can graduate to comedy only if you're well-trained. To me, comedy is the highest form of theatrical endeavor, requiring more understanding and a better sense of timing."

Nan, who started as a tap dancer at the age of 3, played in the old "Our Gang" comedies, and learned mimicry from that cross-eyed master of the silent screen, Ben Turpin.

After growing up, however, she switched to ingenue roles in dramatic plays. It was producer

So Long as Man Remembers

About a year from now, tall-rigged sailing ships flying the flags of 11 seafaring nations will be New York-bound, via Bermuda. From Bermuda it will be a race the like of which has not been seen in our time and isn't likely to be seen again.

It all comes under the heading "Operation Sail 1964" and should be an exciting sidelight of the World's Fair in Flushing Meadows.

The contrast between the space age exhibits in Flushing Meadows and the old sailing ships offshore should add useful perspective to the fair. For without the age of sail and its incentive to exploration, both geographic and scientific, man would not likely be embarking upon his current adventures into space.

It is good to be reminded, as those simple old sailing ships are bound to remind us, that this complex age had simple beginnings.

The basic truths of that simpler era have not changed, and so long as man remembers this, he will know that he has not lost his path.

Lack of Evaluation

Since the Cuban crisis broke with such suddenness last October people have wondered how the Soviet Union could have achieved its massive buildup without being detected.

The fact is the buildup was watched. And a report by the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee says U. S. intelligence services did a reasonably competent job gathering information on it.

The failure, according to the senatorial inquiry, lay in evaluation. This the committee attributes to the "predisposition of the intelligence community to the philosophical conviction that it would be incompatible with Soviet policy to introduce strategic missiles into Cuba."

It seems incredible there could be anyone in responsible office naive enough to believe the Kremlin wouldn't. If he hasn't done so already, President Kennedy should proceed to relieve the intelligence community of its starry-eyed members.

The Strenuous Life

By John Chamberlain

Only yesterday it was an article of faith that we had become a sedentary population, addicted to sitting in the bleachers while a few special performers such as Willie Mays and Mickey Mantle and the last Ernie Davis did the hard work of using their muscles. The cliché about our passivity was part of the standard kit of almost every intellectual who liked to indulge in the sport of America-baiting.

Well, certain statistics collected and released recently by various associations have killed the cliché dead rather than a fence post. The National Recreation Association says there are 7,500,000 softball players and 3,000,000 volleyball players at large and practicing their skills. The American Camping Association comes up with the statistic that 36,000,000 people engage in recreational boating, with 7,000,000 of them owning their own craft. The National Golf Foundation informs us that some 4,000,000 persons play an average of fifteen rounds of golf a year.

All of these millions have been testing their physical reflexes and getting into the open air while the White House has been entertaining the idea that nobody has any muscles any more. Maybe the 4,000,000 golfers won't walk fifty miles a day per person in the course of whacking a ball about the links, but most of them do get around without using those power go-carts that are in favor with septuagenarians who still like to use an iron.

The only place, in fact, where the cult of personal strenuousness has not taken hold is with that curious breed of parent that has high ambitions for their young in things like ballet, modern dance and figure skating. As the husband of a modern dance teacher and the father of a couple of figure-skating daughters, I see a good deal of the sort of parents who are tyrannical about enforcing discipline on their kids while they grow softer themselves by the hour. My preaching instinct always prompts me to tell them to get out there and dance or skate themselves. The other day, going home by train from a spring ice skating session at New York's Madison Square Garden, I found myself moved to this exhortation:

The mothers sit by the side of the rink. Watching the little girls skate. The mothers drop their stitches at the ballet school.

To follow the clean curve of the arabesque. What do the mothers think of as the young knees turn out. In spreadeagle or fifth position? The daughters, they think to themselves, shall never grow old.

The shoulders slumped, the pelvic bones slanted to earth. The diaphragm a dead weight on the stomach. The world, they say, shall be re-created. In the strong, vibrant flesh of the young.

But the daughters, seeing the mothers in the stands of the rink. Or knitting in the chairs at the ballet school.

Absorb the pattern of a crazy race. Skating and dancing, they say to themselves.

Are things for the young, to be put away with age. And so the mothers are robbed of their vision. Of a race purged and renewed in the young.

The young grow old by example. become mothers in their turn. Sitting by the side of the rink or the ballet dancing class.

The lapsed pelvic bones pressing inertly into the thighs.

The hips buried in flesh. Only the teacher remains young. A licensed libertine of sanity.

O crazy race. When will it let the mothers dance.

For joy of being with the young? When will it make the children sit a while. Waiting their turn with the teacher.

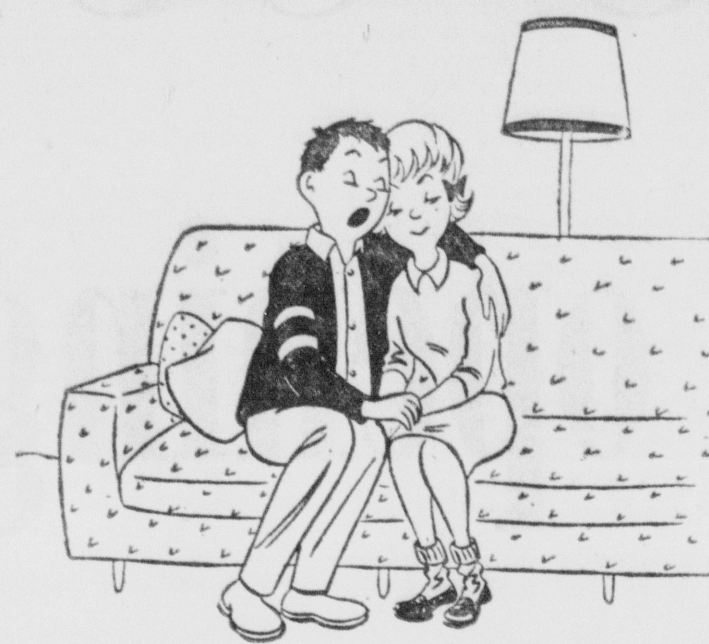

Absorbing the knowledge that age is not a state of burden. A time of toneless muscles and lapsed bones?

Why should the teacher alone be permitted. The gift of sanity in a world gone mad?

I don't claim much for the foregoing as free verse. But let it stand as this columnist's contribution to the drive of the brothers Kennedy to get everybody up and doing something. If we had a ninety or a ninety-five per cent national statistic of athletic participation, think of the money we'd save on sleeping pills, tranquilizers and bills for psychiatric treatment.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

HARPO MARX once went down to the Pasadena railroad station to see a non-plane-riding friend off for the East. He was engaging in some characteristic clowning on the platform when he noticed two prissy old ladies gazing at him with undisguised horror from the diner of the train his friend was boarding. Impulsively, Harpo jumped aboard, rushed up to the women's table, sprinkled salt on their menu and gulped it down.

The women did not react as he expected. One of them calmly summoned the steward and commanded, "Kindly give us another menu. This person has eaten ours."

The frascible head man in a big industrial combine has a personal secretary who is invaluable—but also is an inveterate stutterer. This failing often drives the head man to distraction. One morning he exploded, "Tompkins, I've just conceived a wonderful plan to cure your stuttering." "W-w-what is it?" asked the secretary eagerly. The head man snapped, "Just keep that big mouth of yours shut!"

"How true," sighed George Jessel the other evening, "that behind every successful man there stands a woman—with her attorney."

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP)—Debt totals are rising on all fronts. Individual Americans are pushing their private debt load to new highs even as their various governments are.

Corporate debt has risen more moderately, largely because many companies have had more than the usual amount of cash on hand to finance their activities. But if expansion gets up steam in a new business upturn, they too may be borrowing more.

The role that debt may be playing in the rising volume of stock trading also is being watched. And official curiosity about this will become more keen if the public is finally returning to the market after a long absence credited to disillusionment in the market crash of a year ago.

The present margin rules call for cash payment of 50 per cent, and the rest on credit. The margin was cut to 50 from 70 per cent last July when the markets were ailing.

The federal debt has pushed through the old legal ceiling of $305 billion. This was expected and Congress raised the ceiling to accommodate it. The legal limit may be jacked up still higher before the summer ends.

Debt totals of various state and local governments are expected to go on climbing because of the need for providing more services at once to growing and more demanding populations. Also a number of state legislatures have been reluctant this year to vote higher taxes requested by governors to pay for larger expenditures.

Individuals took on a record load of new installment debt in April and probably as much or more in May. More than $5 billion of new credit was extended in April, while repayment on old obligations came to $4.5 billion. The total outstanding rose to $49 billion. Adding single payment loans, charge accounts and service credit, the Federal Reserve Board figures total consumer credit as rising to $63.3 billion.

The biggest gain was in outstanding auto credit which hit $20.1 billion.

This total seems sure to have risen again in May, since new car sales last month set a record for May of more than 700,000.

Mortgage credit also is rising. More homes are being started, as is usual in warm weather months.

The growing population is a cause. Another is easier mortgage terms being offered by many competing lending institutions whose available funds have risen since they raised their interest rates on savings.

Businessmen regard the rise in consumer debt as both a result of brightening economic conditions and a sign of still further improvement. If Americans are willing to take on more installment debt for new cars or appliances, producers and their suppliers will prosper. And they will be encouraged to increase output or modernize their plants, or build new ones.

Increasing government spending also puts more money into the economy, regardless of worries over meeting the debt later on.

And as long as the general economy is growing, and personal incomes are increasing, and total assets owned by individuals are also swelling, the rise in private and public debt is held by many economists and politicians to be a minor threat.

Business, government and families all increasingly operate on credit. The debt total rises. So does the wherewithal to meet it.

Comedienne Disavows Tragedy

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—It is accepted as show business gospel that in every comedian beats the heart of a hidden Hamlet.

But Nanette Fabray, one of the blithest comedienne of our day, harbors no frustrated hopes of playing Lady MacBeth. No tragic tears for her, thank you.

"I adore light comedy," said Nan, who is winding up a nine-month role as First Lady in Irving Berlin's Broadway musical, "Mr. President," in which she is costarred with Robert Ryan.

"The only thing is that musical comedy is looked down on as a second-class citizen in the performing arts. Drama is considered the grand lady, the matriarch, of the theatrical world.

"Actually, I've found that most musical comedy performers can do a good job in drama. Look at Gertrude Lawrence, Mary Martin, Red Buttons. But the step the other way is rare.

"In the theater you have to start with drama. You can graduate to comedy only if you're well-trained. To me, comedy is the highest form of theatrical endeavor, requiring more understanding and a better sense of timing."

Nan, who started as a tap dancer at the age of 3, played in the old "Our Gang" comedies, and learned mimicry from that cross-eyed master of the silent screen, Ben Turpin.

After growing up, however, she switched to ingenue roles in dramatic plays. It was producer

Vatican Brought To 20th Century

Editor's Note: Following is the last in a series of articles dealing with the life of the late Pope John XXIII.

By BENNET M. BOLTON

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The man who succeeds Pope John XXIII will come to a papacy significantly changed during his reign.

To many people, Catholics and non-Catholics alike, the papacy may seem closer now.

The tradition that Popes seldom leave the Vatican has been broken. Hesitation to receive Protestant leaders has been overcome.

Pope John brought the church to grips with the 20th century.

On Nov. 4, 1958, the day he was crowned, no one dreamed of the changes that were ahead.

Then 76, the pontiff with the heavy features was appraised by many as an interim Pope. There were predictions that the papacy would remain fairly static until the emergence of a strong, vigorous, younger Pope.

Pope John at once shattered that concept, and he continued to sweep away the pieces as his reign progressed. He brought the Pope out of the Vatican and the Roman Catholic Church out of the dynamically into a difficult, modern world.

The major works that marked Pope John as a great Pope were his encyclicals "Mater et Magistra" and "Pacem in Terris."

The qualities that endeared him as a person were his sweeping mental grasp of humanity as a single entity and his utter unpretentiousness.

High Court Ignores 3 Death Cases

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court has refused to review the appeal of John Manos, Steubenville wife slayer.

Manos is serving a life term for the first-degree murder of his wife, Ruth, in their apartment on Dec. 17, 1960, after a drinking bout. A jury recommended mercy.

While awaiting trial, Manos escaped from the Jefferson County Jail but was recaptured March 19, 1961, an hour later.

The high court rejected the appeal of Tommy Harris, serving a life term for the shotgun death of Marion Hatfield at Brush Ridge, Gallia County, Aug. 7, 1960. Harris was convicted of first-degree murder with a recommendation of mercy.

While drinking moonshine, an argument developed between Harris, Hatfield and two other men over feuding when they formerly lived in Floyd County, Kentucky. The shooting followed, records showed.

The court let stand the Allen County conviction of Theodis McCoy for the second-degree murder May 29, 1959 of Ira Coger. McCoy is serving a life sentence.

Briton Off On Search For Monster

LONDON (AP)—Richard Need is a man with an unusual pastime—monster watching.

Each year this 31-year-old documentary film maker drives 550 miles from London to Loch Ness in northern Scotland to watch and wait and film a monster—if one should ever show itself.

"At one time I felt there was something in the loch but was not quite sure what," he said.

"Now, after reading all the books and articles and speaking to several eyewitnesses, I am prepared to stick my neck out and say that the animal in Loch Ness is as yet unclassified by zoology."

The Pope of 1958 wasted no time. One of his first acts was to announce in January, 1959 that he would call an ecumenical—or general—council of all his bishops.

There had been only 20 before in history, the last in 1869-70. Pope John explained that his council would be a council of "aggiornamento"—bringing up to date—designed to help the cause of Christian unity and restore to his own church the pure lines of early centuries.

He labored hard the next four-and-a-half years to bring the project into reality. He set up an elaborate preparatory program to sound out the bishops' ideas and draw up topics.

He held consistories five times for the creation of new cardinals, raising the number from 52 to record highs of 74, 78, 85 and then 87. He brought in cardinals from distant lands where Catholicism is almost nonexistent and let every race be represented. He created the first Negro cardinal, the first Japanese.

He received 250,000 annually in huge weekly general audiences that ran twice the size of his predecessors' audiences. In private audiences he saw princes and kings, prime ministers and potentates, Protestants and atheists—including Soviet Premier Khrushchev's daughter Rada, and son-in-law Alexei Adzhubei, editor of Izvestia. No other Pope had ever received such a personality from the Soviet Union.

The people of the Eternal City, which has seen virtually all the Popes of Catholicism pass down through 20 centuries, took Pope John to their hearts as their beloved pastor, one of their own. Crowds pressed in tight whenever he rode by their piazzas. They shouted their admiration until it rang from the Forum's ruins. "Long live the Pope!" "Long live Papa Giovanni!"

And they chanted the warmest of Italian endearments, the diminutive: "Long live Pope Little John!"

Brando Admits He Has Plans To Wind Up Acting Career

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What's all this about Marlon Brando winding up his acting career?

"Yes, I have six more pictures to do and then it's over, finished, that's all," he said.

How come? Doesn't he get satisfaction from acting any more? "Yes, to a certain extent," he replied. "But the point is that other things give me more satisfaction and hold my interest more. And I must say that this is the first picture I have ever done in which I actually look forward to coming to work."

What would Brando be doing if he didn't act? "Directing interests me a great deal. Also, I scribble. My briefcases are bulging, and I should do something with what's inside."

But he indicated that his business interest lay not in the movie business but in the world around him.

"For instance, the whole area of civil rights," he said. Brando attended the recent reception for Negro leader Martin Luther King at Burt Lancaster's house. He was so taken with King's speech that he contributed $5,000 to the cause and volunteered his services wherever he might be needed.

The recent tour brought Brando more public exposure than he has known in virtually his whole career. He popped up on television shows all over the channels and did interviews from dawn to early morning.

"For 20 years I have neglected the forum which was available to me," he said. "It was my own fault, I guess. Well, I'm not going to neglect it any more. I'm going to use every means at my disposal to get across what I want to say."

Vatican Brought To 20th Century

Editor's Note: Following is the last in a series of articles dealing with the life of the late Pope John XXIII.

By BENNET M. BOLTON

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The man who succeeds Pope John XXIII will come to a papacy significantly changed during his reign.

To many people, Catholics and non-Catholics alike, the papacy may seem closer now.

The tradition that Popes seldom leave the Vatican has been broken. Hesitation to receive Protestant leaders has been overcome.

Pope John brought the church to grips with the 20th Century.

On Nov. 4, 1958, the day he was crowned, no one dreamed of the changes that were ahead.

Then 76, the pontiff with the heavy features was appraised by many as an interim Pope. There were predictions that the papacy would remain fairly static until the emergence of a strong, vigorous, younger Pope.

Pope John at once shattered that concept, and he continued to sweep away the pieces as his reign progressed. He brought the Pope out of the Vatican and the Roman Catholic Church out of the dynamically into a difficult, modern world.

The major works that marked Pope John as a great Pope were his Ecumenical Council and his major encyclicals "Mater et Magistra" and "Pacem in Terris."

The qualities that endeared him as a person were his sweeping mental grasp of humanity as a single entity and his utter unpretentiousness.

High Court Ignores 3 Death Cases

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court has refused to review the appeal of John Manos, Steubenville wife slayer.

Manos is serving a life term for the first-degree murder of his wife, Ruth, in their apartment on Dec. 17, 1960, after a drinking bout. A jury recommended mercy.

While awaiting trial, Manos escaped from the Jefferson County Jail but was recaptured March 19, 1961, an hour later.

The high court rejected the appeal of Tommy Harris, serving a life term for the shotgun death of Marion Hatfield at Brush Ridge, Gallia County, Aug. 7, 1960. Harris was convicted of first-degree murder with a recommendation of mercy.

While drinking moonshine, an argument developed between Harris, Hatfield and two other men over feuding when they formerly lived in Floyd County, Kentucky. The shooting followed, records showed.

The court let stand the Allen County conviction of Theodis McCoy for the second-degree murder May 29, 1959 of Ira Coger. McCoy is serving a life sentence.

Briton Off On Search For Monster

LONDON (AP)—Richard Need is a man with an unusual pastime—monster watching.

Each year this 31-year-old documentary film maker drives 550 miles from London to Loch Ness in northern Scotland to watch and wait and film a monster—if one should ever show itself.

"At one time I felt there was something in the loch but was not quite sure what," he said.

"Now, after reading all the books and articles and speaking to several eyewitnesses, I am prepared to stick my neck out and say that the animal in Loch Ness is as yet unclassified by zoology, that it is probably 30 or 60 feet long and that it probably resembles a plesiosaur (a prehistoric monster)."

Need has never seen a monster, but he is hoping.

He is convinced that a really well-organized expedition could settle once and for all the mystery of the 24-mile long loch.

But the difficulties, even for a massive scientific expedition, would be immense. At its deepest the loch goes down more than 700 feet—deeper than the North Sea, and the brackish black waters make diving and underwater camera work particularly difficult.

He held consistories five times for the creation of new cardinals, raising the number from 52 to record highs of 74, 78, 85 and then 87. He brought in cardinals from distant lands where Catholicism is almost nonexistent and let every race be represented. He created the first Negro cardinal, the first Japanese.

He received 250,000 annually in huge weekly general audiences that ran twice the size of his predecessors' audiences. In private audiences he saw princes and kings, prime ministers and potentates, Protestants and atheists—including Soviet Premier Khrushchev's daughter Rada and son-in-law Alexei Adzhubei, editor of Izvestia. No other Pope had ever received such a personality from the Soviet Union.

The people of the Eternal City, which has seen virtually all the Popes of Catholicism pass down through 20 centuries, took Pope John to their hearts as their beloved pastor, one of their own.

Crowds pressed in tight whenever he rode by their piazzas. They shouted their admiration until it rang from the Forum's ruins. "Long live the Pope!"

"Long live Papa Giovanni!" And they chanted the warmest of Italian endearments, the diminutive: "Long live Pope Little John!"

Brando Admits He Has Plans To Wind Up Acting Career

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What's all this about Marlon Brando winding up his acting career?

"Yes, I have six more pictures to do and then it's over, finished, that's all," he said.

How come? Doesn't he get satisfaction from acting any more? "Yes, to a certain extent," he replied. "But the point is that other things give me more satisfaction and hold my interest more. And I must say that this is the first picture I have ever done in which I actually look forward to coming to work."

What would Brando be doing if he didn't act?

"Directing interests me a great deal. Also, I scribble. My briefcases are bulging, and I should do something with what's inside." But he indicated that his burn-

TREASURE CHEST — Theme of the Pickaway County Garden Club annual flower show was "Treasure Hunt." Mrs. Donald Archer and her assistants, Mrs. William Brenner and Mrs. Robert McCoy, members of the staging committee used this treasure chest to highlight the entrance.

TRI-COLOR AWARD WINNER — Mrs. Ray Carroll stands beside her best of show arrangement. She had used Philadelphus or mock orange. The simple line along with the Oriental figurine "took the judge's" eye.

Flower Show Atmosphere

By MRS. PAULINE HANSON

The morning of the Pickaway Garden Club flower show dawned grey drizzly and the air full of tension, despair, thoughts of hope that the judges would understand, knowing full well that they don't, and according to the rules the atmosphere doesn't enter into a judged arrangement.

The first call your reporter made on this rainy day was to the garden editor. She uttered the words said many, many times on a day like this "I hate flowers!" unquote.

Temper was short and flower supply long and the time for the trip to the grange hall arrived. By the looks afterwards it was worth all the worry and thought.

Incidents of all kinds happen on this day. Mrs. V. G. Campbell lost her pocket book. The hall was turned inside out and no purse. As is the practice after your arrangements are in place each lady dashes for home to dress for the afternoon and what pretty ladies emerge to rival the flowers. Mrs. Campbell arrived home to find her purse was there waiting for her. It never left home.

The club president said never again but is sure she will be ready for the next one, aren't we all! Some of the girls who had not entered many shows said the fun is gone now they are at it so serious and I believe there was a ribbon or two for them.

Talked a minute with Polly Meassamer and the theme for the show was her idea. She said that the judges found ideas that were new to them. Chalk one up for our former president.

The wind was the villain. It came in an open door and took the back drops in one swoop.

Twenty-one ladies had thoughts and ideas and 71 arrangements were the results of carefully cared for flowers and accessories that showed originality.

Mrs. Ben Gordon picked a perfect rose, called the Chrysler Imperial, which she had not debudded for the specimen classes, so she wore it to the show and we all enjoyed it.

Looking around, the beautiful luncheon tables were set with white and yellow, centered with treasure chests of gold color with daisies, ivy, and Eucalyptus spilling out, jewels and gayly colored scarfs. And at each place was a clay pot with miniature yellow and orange flowers. Mrs. Don Archer made the chests and Mrs. Roy Wood the small pots.

Among the fifty-seven ladies were guests from far and near. Mrs. Frank C. Blue of Pampano, Fla. Mrs. Harold Ruby of Cartage, Ind. Mrs. Edith Hanson of Clinton, Iowa. Mrs. L. Fisher, Mrs. George Fischer, Mrs. D. Mason, Mrs. Lloyd Jones, Mrs. Porter, Mrs. Richard Shaw and Mrs. Charles Richardson of this area. The ingenuity of the homemaker

When one entered the grange hall this afternoon the chests of geraniums, jewels, colored scarfs, potted trees of tissue looked like rose trees.

From the satisfied looks on the faces of the ladies the show was a success.

Dear Abby: by Abigail Van Buren

Elected by Popular Vote!

DEAR ABBY: I'm no kid (33) and have had enough experience in this line to know better, but I am in a jam. I started seeing a young woman (she is 25) and we hit it off fine. You know, Abby, when the lights are low a guy makes a lot of "campaign promises," and I guess I did tell her we'd be married in the future. Well, what does this dizzy dame do but go out and buy herself an "engagement ring." She took it to the office where we both work and announced our "engagement." She's telling everybody we'll be married around Thanksgiving. We did talk about it, but I wasn't that definite. I really don't want to marry her or anybody else at the moment. What do I do now?

SHOULD KNOW

DEAR SHOULD: Come right out and tell your mother exactly what you know. This will give her an opportunity to correct any wrong information you have received, and to answer any questions you would like to ask her. If you are a normal young lady, you will probably have several.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ANDY: "What it costs to maintain one vice could bring up two children." (Franklin)

Dear Abby: by Abigail Van Buren

Elected by Popular Vote!

DEAR ABBY: I'm no kid (33) and have had enough experience in this line to know better, but I am in a jam. I started seeing a young woman (she is 25) and we hit it off fine. You know, Abby, when the lights are low a guy makes a lot of "campaign promises," and I guess I did tell her we'd be married in the future. Well, what does this dizzy dame do but go out and buy herself an "engagement ring." She took it to the office where we both work and announced our "engagement." She's telling everybody we'll be married around Thanksgiving. We did talk about it, but I wasn't that definite. I really don't want to marry her or anybody else at the moment. What do I do now?

IN A JAM

DEAR IN: A man who makes "campaign promises" is definitely a candidate. So prepare yourself to "run"—in one direction or another.

DEAR ABBY: For crying out loud, if you use this letter, don't use my name or I'll never hear the end of it. I'm a man almost 40. I sell for a living and do very well because I'm a good talker. I use the telephone instead of writing because, believe it or not, I can't spell. I have tried to look up words in the dictionary to see how they are spelled, but how can you find a word in the dictionary if you can't spell it?

NO SIGNATURE
DEAR NO SIGNATURE: Look up the word the way you THINK it should be spelled. If you can't find it, look up a synonym (a word which means the same thing)—and you'll probably run into it. If you don't have any luck—just ask up somebody and ask him! P.S. Start with "dictionary."

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl who is almost 12 years old and my mother never told me the "facts of life." How can I get her to tell me soon? If she finds out I already know, she will kill me.

SHOULD KNOW

DEAR SHOULD: Come right out and tell your mother exactly what you know. This will give her an opportunity to correct any wrong information you have received, and to answer any questions you would like to ask her. If you are a normal young lady, you will probably have several.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ANDY: "What it costs to maintain one vice could bring up two children." (Franklin)

For a personal, unpublished answer to your letter, write to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Seven Area Students Slated To Attend Annual Girls' State

Buckeye Girls' State attendance this year will far surpass that of any previous year, with some 1,202 high school girls registering in June 15 for the 17th annual session.

Seven Pickaway County area girls will attend the sessions sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary. The event will be held on the campus of Capital University, Columbus.

Area girls attending will be Patricia Barr, Ashville; Patricia Collins, Route 1, Ashville; Ann Hoffman, 1435 N. Court St.; Jill Jenkins, 333 E. Watt St.; Suellen Riddle, Route 2, Orient; Ruth R. Sowers, Route 1, Ashville; and Judy R. Swank, Route 2, Ashville.

Each has completed her junior year in high school and has been sponsored by a local American Legion Auxiliary unit or by other interested civic groups working through an auxiliary unit.

EACH year Buckeye Girls' State teaches outstanding young women, through practical participation the rights, duties and responsibilities of American citizenship as well as the functions and problems of government from local through state level.

Each girl has a definite function — either elective or appointive in the mythical state. A two-party system of political organization and campaigns are followed. There are to be 24 cities and three counties this year. The government will function with the assistance of experienced advisers.

In addition to their practical experience, delegates will hear such speakers as Ohio Governor James Rhodes, Ohio Supreme Court Justice Paul M. Herbert, and Dr. Nicholas Nyaradi, director of the Institute of International Studies, Bradley University, and former Finance Minister of the Hungarian Republic. Many other state, county and city officials from Ohio will be guest speakers and advisers — being gracious and helpful with the giving of their valuable time to help this fine experiment in government.

'Runaway Pappy Act' Pushed By New York Welfare Aides

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — An obscure office in the New York State Department of Social Welfare is providing guidance to other states in a national effort to cut $252 million a year from the cost of public welfare.

The office is the Bureau of Registry and Location. Its task is to find the whereabouts of fathers and mothers who desert their families, leaving them to taxpayers to support.

If located in another state, the parents can be prosecuted under the "runaway pappy act."

The bureau—in full-time operation slightly less than a year—has a 31 per cent record of achievement. A new federal regulation requires all states to set up something similar.

The federal government estimates that desertion is responsible for 18 per cent of cases receiving aid-to-dependent children.

That comes to the $252 million a year figure.

New York and other states have laws requiring parents to support their children. But first the parents must be found.

That is where Nathan Rosenblatt, director of the New York bureau, comes in. With a staff of four and an annual budget of $30,000, Rosenblatt delves through income tax reports, unemployment insurance checks, prison records and motor vehicle department data to find addresses for persons who have left their families on welfare.

The key to the New York operation is that it has access to state records that normally are confidential — tax reports, correction department files, and unemployment insurance records.

If a deserter is employed in the state the bureau can obtain the name and address of the man and his employer. If the man is collecting unemployment insurance, the bureau can learn where the checks are being picked up.

If the man is in jail, in a mental institution, or has visited a friend in jail correction department records will show this.

When the local welfare official knows where his quarry is, he begins legal proceedings to make him assume his responsibilities. Under the runaway pappy act—a uniform law passed by all the states and territories—a support proceeding begun in one state can be tried in another, eliminating the need of returning a man home for trial.

The effectiveness of the bureau is curtailed when a deserter leaves the state and has no contact with any state agency. No adequate machinery exists for location of these individuals, Rosenblatt says. He hopes that an effective interstate information exchange can begin when all states establish a central registry of deserting heads of households.

Norma Easterday, 19, of 427 S. Pickaway St., lacerated her left ankle on a saw.

Dewey Mays, 35, of 380 Avon Drive, caught fingers of his left hand in a car door.

Robert Arnett, 27, Dayton, received treatment when an unknown object struck his eye while he was working.

Shirley Heeter, 26, of 178 Nicholas Drive, lacerated his right leg on a chain saw at the Eshelman mill.

Barbershop Chorus Guest Night Slated

CAP Hunting Pair of Planes

Colorado, Ohio Ships Reported Overdue

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Civil Air Patrol wings in West Virginia, Ohio and Maryland continued a search today for two single-engine aircraft with four persons aboard long overdue at their destinations.

Both airplanes were on flights which would have taken them over north-central West Virginia when they disappeared.

Latest to turn up missing was a Piper Comanche carrying J. R. Gardner II 38, and his wife, Elaine, 33, of Denver, Colo.

CAP officials here said Gardner left Philadelphia, Pa., at 11:23 a.m. Wednesday on a flight to Columbus, Ohio.

The last time the plane was heard from was when Gardner contacted Washington, D.C. around noon, requesting weather data for the Martinsburg, W.Va., and Pittsburgh areas.

CAP officials added that Gardner had filed a flight plan which included check points of Westminster, Md., Martinsburg and Morgantown W. Va. and Zanesville, Ohio.

The Gardners' plane was described as an orange, red, and white craft with the registration number N5133P.

The other aircraft, on the CAP's missing list since Monday night, carried two Ohioans—Ernest Pelizzari, 51, of Sebring, and Edward Beltrami, 50, of Alliance.

The single-engine Bellanca piloted by Pelizzari was last heard from about 50 miles north of Charleston when the pilot called the Charleston airport tower requesting navigation instructions.

State CAP aircraft and ground personnel have combed the Clay and Braxton County areas north-east of Charleston looking for the missing plane for the past two days.

Pelizzari and Beltrami were en route to Alliance after a trip to Florida. They had left Roanoke, Va., on the last leg of the flight before making contact with the Charleston airport.

Gas Co. Working On Line Project

Work is under way on a $10,800 Ohio Fuel Gas Co. pipeline replacement project north of Stoutsville to deliver more natural gas to Stoutsville, about 10 miles east of Circleville.

G. Ninde Lawson, Circleville manager for Ohio Fuel, said more than a mile of new pipeline — three inches in diameter — is being laid south along School House Pike from an existing Ohio Fuel measuring station about a mile north of Stoutsville to near Main St., in Stoutsville.

The new line will replace an existing smaller diameter line that supplies Stoutsville, Lawson said.

Logan Construction Co. of Logan is making the replacement for Ohio Fuel. Work is expected to be completed about June 15, Lawson said.

Ohioans' Advice Asked In Saving State Money

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohioans with ideas on how the state might improve services and cut costs have been invited by Finance Director Richard L. Krabach to offer suggestions. Krabach says he has received many excellent letters from Ohioans interested in their government and would like to receive more.

"We appreciate their sincerity and the obvious depth of thought which people are giving to various subjects, ranging from how to cut costs and remove red tape to how to improve services," he said. Letters should be sent to his office in the statehouse.

Seven Area Students Slated To Attend Annual Girls' State

Buckeye Girls' State attendance this year will far surpass that of any previous year, with some 1,202 high school girls registering in June 15 for the 17th annual session.

Seven Pickaway County area girls will attend the sessions sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary. The event will be held on the campus of Capital University, Columbus.

Area girls attending will be Patricia Barr, Ashville; Patricia Collins, Route 1, Ashville; Ann Hoffman, 1435 N. Court St.; J. J. Jenkins, 353 E. Watt St.; Suellen Riddle, Route 2, Orient; Ruth R. Sowers, Route 1, Ashville; and Judy R. Swank, Route 2, Ashville. Each has completed her junior year in high school and has been sponsored by a local American Legion Auxiliary unit or by other interested civic groups working through an auxiliary unit.

Each year Buckeye Girls' State is a outstanding young women, through practical participation the rights, duties and responsibilities of American citizenship as well as the functions and problems of government from local through state level.

Each girl has a definite function — either elective or appointive in the mythical state. A two-party system of political organization and campaigns are followed. There are to be 24 cities and three counties this year. The government will function with the assistance of experienced advisers.

In addition to their practical experience, delegates will hear such speakers as Ohio Governor James Rhodes, Ohio Supreme Court Justice Paul M. Herbert, and Dr. Nicholas Nyaradi, director of the Institute of International Studies, Bradley University, and former Finance Minister of the Hungarian Republic. Many other state, county and city officials from Ohio will be guest speakers and advisers — being gracious and helpful with the giving of their valuable time to help this fine experiment in government.

'Runaway Pappy Act' Pushed By New York Welfare Aides

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — An obscure office in the New York State Department of Social Welfare is providing guidance to other states in a national effort to cut $252 million a year from the cost of public welfare.

The office is the Bureau of Registry and Location. Its task is to find the whereabouts of fathers and mothers who desert their families, leaving them to taxpayers to support.

If located in another state, the parents can be prosecuted under "the runaway pappy act."

The bureau—in full-time operation slightly less than a year—has a 31 per cent record of achievement. A new federal regulation requires all states to set up something similar.

The federal government estimates that desertion is responsible for 18 per cent of cases receiving aid-to-dependent children. That comes to the $252 million a year figure.

New York and other states have laws requiring parents to support their children. But first the parents must be found.

That is where Nathan Rosenblatt, director of the New York bureau, comes in. With a staff of four and an annual budget of $30,800, Rosenblatt delves through income tax reports, unemployment insurance checks, prison records and motor vehicle department data to find addresses for persons who have left their families on welfare.

The key to the New York operation is that it has access to state records that normally are confidential — tax reports, correction department files, and unemployment insurance records.

If a deserter is employed in the state the bureau can obtain the name and address of the man and his employer. If the man is collecting unemployment insurance, the bureau can learn where the checks are being picked up.

If the man is in jail, in a mental institution, or has visited a friend in jail correction department records will show this.

When the local welfare official knows where his quarry is, he begins legal proceedings to make him assume his responsibilities. Under the runaway pappy act—a uniform law passed by all the states and territories—a support proceeding begun in one state can be tried in another, eliminating the need of returning a man home for trial.

The effectiveness of the bureau is curtailed when a deserter leaves the state and has no contact with any state agency. No adequate machinery exists for location of these individuals, Rosenblatt says. He hopes that an effective interstate information exchange can begin when all states establish a central registry of deserting heads of households.

Robert Arnett, 27, Dayton, received treatment when an unknown object struck his eye while he was working.

Shirley Heeter, 26, of 178 Nicholas Drive, lacerated his right leg on a chain saw at the Eshelman mill.

CAP Hunting Pair of Planes

Colorado, Ohio Ships
Reported Overdue

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Civil Air Patrol wings in West Virginia, Ohio and Maryland continued a search today for two single-engine aircraft with four persons aboard long overdue at their destinations.

Both airplanes were on flights which would have taken them over north-central West Virginia when they disappeared.

Latest to turn up missing was a Piper Comanche carrying J. R. Gardner II 38, and his wife, Elaine, 33, of Denver, Colo.

CAP officials here said Gardner left Philadelphia, Pa., at 11:23 a.m. Wednesday on a flight to Columbus, Ohio.

The last time the plane was heard from was when Gardner contacted Washington, D.C. around noon, requesting weather data for the Martinsburg, W.Va., and Pittsburgh areas.

CAP officials added that Gardner had filed a flight plan which included check points of Westminster, Md., Martinsburg and Morgantown W. Va. and Zanesville, Ohio.

The Gardner's plane was described as an orange, red, and white craft with the registration number N5133P.

The other aircraft, on the CAP's missing list since Monday night, carried two Ohioans—Ernest Pelizzari, 51, of Sebring, and Edward Beltrami, 50, of Alliance.

The single-engine Bellanca piloted by Pelizzari was last heard from about 50 miles north of Charleston when the pilot called the Charleston airport tower requesting navigation instructions.

State CAP aircraft and ground personnel have combed the Clay and Braxton County areas northeast of Charleston looking for the missing plane for the past two days.

Pelizzari and Beltrami were en route to Alliance after a trip to Florida. They had left Roanoke, Va., on the last leg of the flight before making contact with the Charleston airport.

Gas Co. Working On Line Project

Work is under way on a $10,800 Ohio Fuel Gas Co. pipeline replacement project north of Stoutsville to deliver more natural gas to Stoutsville, about 10 miles east of Circleville.

G. Ninde Lawson, Circleville manager for Ohio Fuel, said more than a mile of new pipeline — three inches in diameter — is being laid south along School House Pike from an existing Ohio Fuel measuring station about a mile north of Stoutsville to near Main St., in Stoutsville.

The new line will replace an existing smaller diameter line that supplies Stoutsville, Lawson said. Logan Construction Co. of Logan is making the replacement for Ohio Fuel. Work is expected to be completed about June 15, Lawson said.

Circleville Native Appointed To Cultural Center Committee

A Circleville native has been named vice chairman of the Veterans Committee for the Washington Metropolitan Area Campaign for the National Cultural Center, according to Mark Evans, chairman of the Special Groups Committee of the National Cultural Center.

James G. Dunton, presently residing in Falls Church, Va., received the appointment at the same time Waldron E. Leonard was named chairman of the committee.

Dunton served in the Army Ambulance Corps in France in 1918; is a graduate of Harvard University; author of a World War I novel, "A Maid and a Million Men"; was an Army public relations officer in World War II; and served in the office of Secretary of State from 1950-61.

He is current public relations consultant and Washington representative of the American Chess Foundation, Oliver Wendell Holmes Assn., and other non-profit organizations. He still maintains a membership in the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Circleville chapter.

B&O-C&O Pledges Better Service

CLEVELAND (AP)—Improved passenger service will be among the first benefits to the public from the affiliation of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway and the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, the presidents of the two carriers said Wednesday.

The importance of good equipment, convenient schedules and courteous attentive personnel was stressed in a joint statement by Walter J. Tuohy, president of the C&O, and Jervis Langdon Jr., head of the B&O.

Improvements being made to B&O and C&O passenger service include the refurbishing of 88 B&O coaches used in runs serving Baltimore, Washington, Pittsburgh, Chicago and St. Louis, it was announced.

Extensive improvements in freight services also are being made by the affiliated railroads, the two presidents said.

CLEVELAND (AP)—Mrs. Dorcel, R. Moore 40, of Mentua, died in a hospital Wednesday night, shortly after she was found suffering from a gunshot wound.

Ohioans' Advice Asked In Saving State Money

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohioans with ideas on how the state might improve services and cut costs have been invited by Finance Director Richard L. Krabach to offer suggestions. Krabach says he has received many excellent letters from Ohioans interested in their government and would like to receive more.

"We appreciate their sincerity and the obvious depth of thought which people are giving to various subjects, ranging from how to cut costs and remove red tape to how to improve services," he said. Letters should be sent to his office in the statehouse.

Fresh Violence Tears Iran Apart

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Turbulent Iran, historically a focus of East-West rivalry, may be headed once again for a new period of violence which can endanger the Western position in the whole strategic Middle East.

What started out to be religious rioting in Tehran's streets against Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi's reforms turned suddenly—but by no means surprisingly—into violent political uproar.

Apparently this has been sparked by diverse groups, each with reasons of its own for wanting to smother the shah's reform program.

Street mobs in Tehran, always an important political factor in Iran, are marshaled from various Islamic societies from the ranks of bitter anti-shah nationalists, from among the bullies, thugs and ruffians of the bazaars. They can be used by any who can buy them, to support almost any cause.

Involved in this new attack on the reform-minded shah, apparently, are big landlords, mullahs of the Shiite Moslems, nationalist politicians who follow aged former Premier Mohammed Mossadegh, and Tudeh party Communists and their followers.

The shah himself is a Shiite Moslem, as are the majority of Iranians. The mullahs bitterly resent his land reform program because, apparently, they feel it endangers their great acreage holdings.

Landlords have similar reasons for resenting the shah's plans. Nationalist politicians long have hankered and plotted to overthrow the constitutional monarchy. And the Tudeh Communists—though underground and reduced in power over the past decade—are in the show for the usual obvious reasons—to take advantage of any turbulent situation.

The majority of the country clearly is behind the shah, although that does not insure him against revolutionary thrusts from powerful forces in Tehran.

In a plebiscite early this year, the country voted overwhelmingly for the shah's program. This envisions breaking up big estates among small farmers, sale of government-owned factories to finance repayment of landlords, amendments to election laws to prevent fraud, nationalization of forests, establishment of a force to battle illiteracy, and a profit-sharing plan for factory workers.

Both Communists and nationalists accuse the shah of attempting to foist a fraud on the people. But the vote for the program was so overwhelming that it left no doubt how the country felt about it.

A political upheaval in Iran is always possible, no matter how much the country might support the shah. Iran is a keystone of the U.S.-backed Central Treaty Organization and a pillar of the Turkey-Iran defenses against Communist designs on the Middle East.

Moscow, therefore, would have a large stake in Iranian violence.

Bartender, Lawyer Held For Blackmail

CLEVELAND (AP)—A lawyer and a bartender have been charged with blackmail, corrupting a witness and impeding justice in connection with a vice case in suburban Cleveland Heights.

Cuyahoga County Prosecutor John T. Corrigan said Tuesday that the men demanded $3,000 from a Cleveland Heights businessman under threat they would disclose the man's part in a vice case.

Charges were placed against Christopher Nardi, 29, a former assistant state attorney general, and John F. Allen, 50, a bartender with a previous police record.

Common Pleas Court Judge William K. Thomas, who issued the warrants charging the men, set June 14 for their preliminary hearing. Nardi is free under $1,000 bond and Allen is in county jail in default of $10,000 bond. Both were arrested Monday.

Corrigan said Nardi was taken into custody after leaving the office of the businessman's lawyer, where he allegedly collected the money.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alabama's Gov. George C. Wallace has set the stage to play the martyr. That's clear, but not his reason for trying it.

Nine years ago the Supreme Court ordered public schools desegregated, ruling that "separate educational facilities are unequal."

But the court, because there are so many elementary and secondary schools and they have varying problems, allowed time for desegregating all of them.

This was when it said desegregation should proceed "with all deliberate speed." Recently the court indicated it feels the speed is much too slow.

So much for the elementary and secondary schools.

As for state colleges or universities—the court said a week ago "recognition of the need for delay" has not even been extended to them.

But the University of Alabama is a public school and it hasn't been desegregated at all. Not one school of any kind in Alabama has been desegregated.

This year a federal court, nine years after the Supreme Court's original ruling, ordered Negroes admitted next Monday to the University of Alabama.

Wallace promptly announced he would stand in the university door to block the Negroes from registering. He repeated this as late as last Sunday.

Wednesday a federal district judge, Seymour H. Lynne, issued a stern injunction to Wallace not to interfere with the Negroes' enrollment.

It does not prevent him from going to the campus Monday morning demanding in the name of the state that the Negroes be denied enrollment.

In effect, he's free to put on an act.

But the injunction warned him

100 Firemen Battle Blaze in Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—Nearly 100 firemen from three battalions under the direction of Chief William Barry battled a four-alarm fire in downtown Cleveland today.

The fire broke out in the basement of a three-story brick building at 2134 E. 9th St. shortly after 3 a.m. and some 20 pieces of equipment had been sent to the scene three hours later. Cause of the blaze was not determined immediately.

By James Marlow

not to block, prevent or interfere with the entrance of the Negro students by "physically interposing his person or that of any other person under his direction or control."

If Wallace defies this injunction and is arrested and convicted of criminal contempt, he could be jailed for 10 years.

Nevertheless, a few hours after the warning from the judge, Wallace went on the air to say he would take action that "involves even my personal freedom, but I intend to carry it out, regardless of what risk I take."

He added: "What happens to George Wallace is not important but what happens to constitutional government is very important."

But how does the preservation of constitutional government jibe with what Wallace says he'll do since the Supreme Court has declared segregation unconstitutional?

al and a federal judge ordered Alabama's university desegregated?

Last weekend he said that resistance to the court order is a "dramatic way to express to the American people the omnipotent march of centralized government."

Then he added this: "If I am arrested I will go peacefully. I haven't said I'd disobey a federal court order for defiance's sake but for testing."

Testing what? He said the basic constitutional question to be decided in the courts is "whether Alabama could operate its school system as it has in the past or whether the courts and the federal government would, in effect, operate the system."

Both parts of this question can be answered easily:

1. The courts and the federal government, as Wallace knows, do not operate states' school systems. So this is not a real question.

2. Alabama in the past has operated segregated public schools. The Supreme Court has ruled public school segregation is unconstitutional.

So there is no constitutional question left to be tested.

But the court, because there are so many elementary and secondary schools and they have varying problems, allowed time for desegregating all of them.

This was when it said desegregation should proceed "with all deliberate speed." Recently the court indicated it feels the speed is much too slow.

So much for the elementary and secondary schools.

As for state colleges or universities—the court said a week ago "recognition of the need for delay" has not even been extended to them.

But the University of Alabama is a public school and it hasn't been desegregated at all. Not one school of any kind in Alabama has been desegregated.

This year a federal court, nine years after the Supreme Court's original ruling, ordered Negroes admitted next Monday to the University of Alabama.

Wallace promptly announced he would stand in the university door to block the Negroes from registering. He repeated this as late as last Sunday.

Wednesday a federal district judge, Seymour H. Lynne, issued a stern injunction to Wallace not to interfere with the Negroes' enrollment.

It does not prevent him from going to the campus Monday nor demanding in the name of the state that the Negroes be denied enrollment.

In effect, he's free to put on an act. But the injunction warned him not to block, prevent or interfere with the entrance of the Negro students by "physically interposing his person or that of any other person under his direction or control."

If Wallace defies this injunction and is arrested and convicted of criminal contempt, he could be jailed for 10 years.

Nevertheless, a few hours after the warning from the judge, Wallace went on the air to say he would take action that "involves even my personal freedom, but I intend to carry it out, regardless of what risk I take."

He added: "What happens to George Wallace is not important but what happens to constitutional government is very important."

But how does the preservation of constitutional government jibe with what Wallace says he'll do since the Supreme Court has declared segregation unconstitutional.

al and a federal judge ordered Alabama's university desegregated?

Last weekend he said that resistance to the court order is a "dramatic way to express to the American people the omnipotent march of centralized government."

Then he added this: "If I am arrested I will go peacefully. I haven't said I'd disobey a federal court order for defiance's sake, but for testing."

Testing what?

He said the basic constitutional question to be decided in the courts is whether Alabama could operate its school system as it has in the past or whether the courts and the federal government would, in effect, operate the system.

Both parts of this question can be answered easily:

1. The courts and the federal government, as Wallace knows, do not operate states' school systems. So this is not a real question.

2. Alabama in the past has operated segregated public schools. The Supreme Court has ruled public school segregation is unconstitutional.

So there is no constitutional question left to be tested.

Peony Fans To Meet, Show At Kingwood on June 7-9

Kingwood Center, Mansfield, is to be the site for the 60th annual meeting and 58th annual National Show of the American Peony Society on June 7, 8 and 9.

The peony garden at Kingwood was established in 1954 with the generous help of the Society and has become a great attraction for all visitors over the past few years. Last year the peony bloom was exceptionally good. Ideal weather condition have promoted an even more luxuriant growth this year.

The show committee of the American Peony Society selected the weekend of June 8 and 9 because it promises to be the peak of bloom in Kingwood's collection of more than 400 plants containing 374 varieties of herbaceous peonies and 28 varieties of tree peonies.

The show will be open to the public from 2 p. m. Eastern Standard Time to 9 p. m. on Saturday and 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. on Sunday.

All gardeners are invited by the society to enter the show and attend the meetings on Saturday and Sunday. Closing time for entries is 11 a. m. Eastern Standard Time

June 8.

Show schedule's and the agenda of meetings and events may be obtained by writing Kingwood Center, Box 1186, Mansfield. Registration blanks for a luncheon and the annual banquet of the society are also available on request.

Awards of national stature will be made to outstanding entries in the show.

ON SATURDAY there will be a peony root auction, the proceeds to go for the operation of the society. Many hard to get peony varieties will be available at this auction.

Sunday's program includes a panel discussion on peony varieties, culture and showing by some of the nation's outstanding peony experts.

Kingwood is located just a few minutes off Interstate Route 71 and U. S. Route 30, Route 13 leads directly to Mansfield from the Ohio Turnpike. All major roads in and around Mansfield are clearly marked with Kingwood directional signs. There is no admission charge to the gardens or show.

Tranquil Kinderhook Area Provides Room for Flowers

By MRS. ELIZABETH JONES

Kinderhook is a jog in the road. It's a tranquil, peaceful, unassuming little community.

When traveling towards Williamsport turn left at Route 138 and follow the road until it twists and crosses a railroad track. That's Kinderhook. Keep following the road and you come to Route 22 again.

There are good gardeners in Kinderhook. It's communities like this where the best vegetables in the world are raised. Nowadays gardeners like to tuck a few vegetables in with the flowers. But in Kinderhook the flowers are tucked in the vegetable gardens.

Mrs. John Parrett lives in a white house near the railroad tracks. Mrs. Parrett's iris were in full bloom when we visited her garden.

HER IRIS are planted in the island formed by the driveway to her home. She has 20 or more varieties of iris. She just grows them and enjoys them out makes no attempt to label her iris according to variety.

Mrs. Parrett's vegetable garden is well cared for, thriving in a fenced in area.

The Parretts have been harvesting onions for several weeks. Mrs. Parrett says they planted more than 20 pounds. Her beans had been nipped by the frost. Her cabbages and tomatoes were growing nicely and there was not one weed in sight, (garden editors are always impressed by weedless gardens).

When we asked Mrs. Parrett what she was going to do with all the vegetables she said that some would go into the freezer for winter use and the family would enjoy the rest.

Like all good iris fans, Mrs. Parrett has started another gardener out with a collection of these lovely flowers. Her daughter, Mrs. Don Devault, whose trailer is within a stone's throw of her mother's home, has a nice planting of iris, too.

Across the railroad tracks from the Parretts was another garden. This was a casual planting of poppies and columbine which belong to Mrs. Oscar Atwood.

MRS. ATWOOD is employed at General Electric. She has little time to spend on her flowers, but nevertheless she loves them. Her daughter, Lois, told us that "Mom did all the work in the flowers."

Mrs. Atwood likes roses and has replanted tea roses in the garden where the winter killed some special favorites. When digging out one of the roses she found a sprout deep under the ground. Just for the fun of it she is allowing it to remain, although she is quite certain it will not come true to variety.

Japanese, Single Peonies Not Same

There is a difference between the single and the Japanese peony.

The single peonies resemble huge anemones in form and open three or five days earlier than the Japanese types. If single peonies are cut at the stage when they will shed their pollen the flowers will be discolored. Single blooms hold up their heads well without support.

Japanese peonies are graceful in growth and quite different in type of flower with wide flaring petals of exquisite coloring and texture. The centers are more or less a compact mass of tiny petals. If anemone (Japanese) or stamanoidea if regular Japanese, usually a color contrasting with the main petal color.

MRS. JOHN PARRETT AND HER IRIS — The Parrett iris in full bloom are well worth seeing. Here Mrs. Parrett and her dog take time out to view the many different varieties she has planted.

FLOWER PICKER — Lois Atwood poses for a picture in her mother's flower planting in Kinderhook. Lois says she leaves the flower gardening up to her mother, Rosie Atwood. Mrs. Atwood says the flowers take care of themselves mostly because she is too busy to give them much time. Lois is an 8th grade graduate this year.

A visit to Kinderhook must always include a stop over at the garden of Mrs. Robert Woodward. We viewed the Chester garden just as the first peonies were in bloom.

Mrs. Chester has about 200 plants including more than 20 varieties. They grow in rows in the vegetable garden.

She tills her garden with a garden cultivator. Peas were in blossom. Corn was up. Tomatoes, cabbages and beans had been unharmed by the frost. There were also beets, carrots and endive.

Along the garden fence Mrs. Chester had shrubs. In her yard she has interesting plant material. The garden is a big one.

"Yes," says Mrs. Chester, "it takes a lot of work but I enjoy it." She says she sticks pretty close to home and her peony garden is a hobby. She sells peonies for Decoration Day sometimes. But actually she has them chiefly because she loves them.

No show is staged without the chairman knowing the exact number of entries in each class. The classes are filled weeks in advance and late comers are simply told that there is no room for additional exhibits.

It works out well for the staging committee. We once heard an easterner say if advance registration were tried just once nobody would ever go back to the hit and miss method of staging a show in the old way.

The old way is to accept and make room for any arrangements exhibitors might choose to bring.

In case of illness or death the exhibitor is requested to procure a substitute arranger for all the classes she signed for.

Frankly we hate to be reactionary — but we're for the old way. We once witnessed an exhibitor deathly ill from ptomaine poison stagger to the show with eight arrangements.

Pumpkin Show Flower Exhibit Schedule Aired

MRS. G. G. Campbell, Pumpkin Show Flower exhibit chairman met with her schedule committee recently at luncheon in Odra's party room.

The group included representatives from different clubs throughout the county and trading area. Mrs. Campbell plans to alternate clubs every year rather than have a representative from each garden organization.

Garden Gossip

Mrs. Joe West, Williamsport, has a charming plant which she identifies as "Blue Star plant." It is a low growing type of campanula and just a mass of violet-blue star shaped blossoms.

Did you lose some of your favorite dahlia tubers over the winter? Take heart! Even an expert like William Rhinesmith lost some of his.

Rhinesmith says to cut tubers but make sure each tuber has an eye or it cannot sprout. Eyes are hard to see unless there is a sprout.

If the sprout on a dahlia tuber breaks off do not worry. A new one will start again from the same eye.

Rhinesmith says not to plant a whole clump of dahlia tubers. One small one is sufficient. He says to go easy on fertilizers with a lot of nitrogen. Nitrogen-fertilizers make big flowers but soft, non-keeping tubers.

Dahlia fanciers fertilize their show dahlias with nitrogen compounds but use something else for the tubers they plan to hold over.

The Rhinesmiths have a "Mylar" greenhouse built of their home in Williamsport. Mrs. Rhinesmith says it is so constructed that on a sunny below-zero day it would register 90 degrees without the furnace.

Mrs. Charles Fleming (Monrovia Garden Club) has a garden which fellow gardeners like to visit. She is said to be very generous with her cuttings. She has azaleas and rhododendron in her woodlot.

I hope everybody went to see Donald McBeth's azaleas. Aside from the azaleas the McBeth place has considerable atmosphere. There is even an old draw well.

Pauline Hanson has a beautiful gardenia plant. Each day or two new buds come into blossom.

Mrs. W. E. Caskey, 145 E. High St., has good luck with gardenias. Her thriving plants are more than 2-years-old. She gives them a mite of aluminum sulphate about once a year.

Mrs. Caskey also has southern hibiscus plants that bloom for her. She took a cutting from a double hibiscus and when it bloomed it was a single flower. "Explain that," she said. I can't.

Mrs. Caskey says it takes seven years for a peony to bloom from seed. She has a seedling plant of Mikado which is more beautiful than its parent.

My goodness — flower people are going to be exhausted after June is over! There's the Pickaway County Garden Club Flower Show on June 5; the Solqua Rose breakfast on June 7; the Ohio Association of Garden Clubs Council luncheon and show on June

1 and the Rose and Peony conventions at Columbus and Mansfield on June 7, 8 and 9.

The Monrovia Garden Club will be hostess club this year when the Pickaway County Council of Garden Clubs of Ohio meets June 12. There will be door prizes, a plant sale and chances on a beautiful planter.

The Harold Frys of Williamsport had a gorgeous pink poppy plant which the storm played havoc with. The garden is entirely her husband's domain, Frances Fry says. Their roses will be blooming this week.

The Floyd Huffers of Whisler have deep pink peonies in bloom. They also have an enormous mock orange bush in full blossom.

The I. J. Edmestons, also of Whisler, have feather hyacinths blooming now. This old fashioned flower is rare. Some people call it plume hyacinth. It is a curious plant. I have never seen it blooming anywhere in abundance.

Roy Waddington, Route 1, Kingston, has peonies planted all across his front yard. Each year we look forward to seeing the Waddington place when the peonies are blooming.

Gene Hanson, Northridge Road, has a big vegetable garden. His radishes, onions and lettuce are ready for the table. He was out planting the garden the second Tuesday night in April. Gee! It was cold. I remember because Pauline Hanson and I were on our way to garden club.

Mrs. Kirby Drake says we were hurtin' for rain out in our direction. And she heard from her daughter, Mary Ann, that in Dayton they've had too much.

Municipal Judge Raymond R. Roberts leveled the penalty on actor Richard Chamberlain for receiving two speeding tickets in a month.

Show, Luncheon Scheduled June 12 By OAGC Council

"Summertime" is the theme selected by the flower show co-chairmen of the Pickaway County Council of Garden Clubs for the exhibit and annual luncheon June 12 in the Methodist Church basement at Five Points.

The co-chairmen, Mrs. Florence Haughn and Mrs. Charles Fleming, kept in mind the novice arranger when they made the schedule. They are hoping new arrangers as well as experienced exhibitors will enter the competition.

Luncheon will be at noon. Mrs. William Davis and her Youth Temperance Council will be in charge of the meal. Proceeds are to go towards a camp fund.

Mrs. C. W. Hedges, program director, will present Mrs. James Hott as featured speaker for the occasion. Her topic will be "The New Trend in Flower Arranging." Mrs. Hott will use flowers cured in silica-jel in combination with fresh material.

IN THE artistic division there will be four classes. They are: 1. "Tranquility" — An arrangement using water to simulate a lake, pool or stream. 2. "Way Out" — An arrangement in the latest modernistic manner. 3. "June Elegance" — An arrangement featuring roses. 4. "Barefoot Boy" — An arrangement using roadside material.

There are 13 classes in the specimen division. They are: 1. Roses — Tea, any color, 3 individual blooms. 2. Roses, Grandiflora, any color, 1 stem. 3. Roses, Floribunda, any color, 1 stem. 4. Roses, bicolor, 3 individual blooms. 5. Peony, double, one variety, any color, 1 individual bloom.

6. Peony, single, one variety, any color, 1 individual bloom. 7. Iris, bearded, any color, 1 stem. 8. Iris, beardless, any color, 1 stem. 9. Roses, blend, 3 individual blooms.

Awards will be money prizes. First prize will be 50 cents; second prize 35 cents; third prize 25 cents and fourth prize a ribbon.

Rules for the competition are: 1. Closing time for entries is 10:30 a. m. No entry will be accepted after that time. All exhibitors must complete any adjustment of their entries by closing time. 2. Any member of any club belonging to the Ohio Assn. of Garden Clubs may enter. 3. Exhibitors may enter as many classes as desired but only one entry to a class.

4. Bases and accessories will be considered a part of the arrangements. 5. Management cannot be responsible for any breakage or damage to materials used. 6. No greenhouse material will be permitted. 7. Specimens must be grown by exhibitor. 8. Exhibitor must furnish own containers for specimens.

Garden Gossip

Mrs. Joe West, Williamsport, has a charming plant which she identifies as "Blue Star plant." It is a low growing type of campanula and just a mass of violet-blue star shaped blossoms.

Did you lose some of your favorite dahlia tubers over the winter? Take heart! Even an expert like William Rhinesmith lost some of his.

Rhinesmith says to cut tubers but make sure each tuber has an eye or it cannot sprout. Eyes are hard to see unless there is a sprout.

If the sprout on a dahlia tuber breaks off do not worry. A new one will start again from the same eye.

Rhinesmith says not to plant a whole clump of dahlia tubers. One small one is sufficient. He says to go easy on fertilizers with a lot of nitrogen. Nitrogen-fertilizers make big flowers but soft, non-keeping tubers.

Dahlia fanciers fertilize their show dahlias with nitrogen compounds but use something else for the tubers they plan to hold over.

The Rhinesmiths have a "Mylar" greenhouse back of their home in Williamsport. Mrs. Rhinesmith says it is so constructed that on a sunny below-zero day it would register 90 degrees without the furnace.

Mrs. Charles Fleming (Monrovia Garden Club) has a garden which fellow gardeners like to visit. She is said to be very generous with her cuttings. She has azaleas and rhododendrons in her woodlot.

I hope everybody went to see Donald McBeth's azaleas. Aside from the azaleas the McBeth place has considerable atmosphere. There is even an old draw well.

Pauline Hanson has a beautiful gardenia plant. Each day or two new buds come into blossom.

Mrs. W. E. Caskey, 145 E. High St., has good luck with gardenias. Her thriving plants are more than 2-years-old. She gives them a mite of aluminum sulphate about once a year.

Mrs. Caskey also has southern hibiscus plants that bloom for her. She took a cutting from a double hibiscus and when it bloomed it was a single flower. "Explain that," she said. I can't.

Mrs. Caskey says it takes seven years for a peony to bloom from seed. She has a seedling plant of Mikado which is more beautiful than its parent.

My goodness — flower people are going to be exhausted after June is over! There's the Pickaway County Garden Club Flower Show on June 5; the Solqua Rose breakfast on June 7; the Ohio Association of Garden Clubs Council luncheon and show on June

1 and the Rose and Peony conventions at Columbus and Mansfield on June 7, 8 and 9.

The Monrovia Garden Club will be hostess club this year when the Pickaway County Council of Garden Clubs of Ohio meets June 12. There will be door prizes, a plant sale and chances on a beautiful planter.

The Harold Frys of Williamsport had a gorgeous pink poppy plant which the storm played havoc with. The garden is entirely her husband's domain, Frances Fry says. Their roses will be blooming this week.

The Floyd Huffers of Whisler have deep pink peonies in bloom. They also have an enormous mock orange bush in full bloom.

The I. J. Edmestons, also of Whisler, have feather hyacinths blooming now. This old fashioned flower is rare. Some people call it plume hyacinth. It is a curious plant. I have never seen it blooming anywhere in abundance.

Roy Waddington, Route 1, Kingston, has peonies planted all across his front yard. Each year we look forward to seeing the Waddington place when the peonies are blooming.

Gene Hanson, Northridge Road, has a big vegetable garden. His radishes, onions and lettuce are ready for the table. He was out planting the garden the second Tuesday night in April. Gee! It was cold. I remember because Pauline Hanson and I were on our way to garden club.

Mrs. Kirby Drake says we were hurtin' for rain out in our direction. And she heard from her daughter, Mary Ann, that in Dayton they've had too much.

Teams Start Taking Comic Cubs Seriously

Funny Chicago Crew Beats Giants Twice, Are Tied for 2nd

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Chicago Cubs are acting just like they're serious about this game of baseball. Which, of course, just couldn't be.

Everyone knows the Cubs are a team you point at and giggle. Imagine, a nine-man coaching staff and, of all things, an athletic director. Sure, a million laughs.

Only, who's giggling? Certainly not the San Francisco Giants. Nor the rest of the National League. Nor, come to think about it, anyone but dyed-in-the-wool Cub fans.

The fired-up Cubs swept a doubleheader from the Giants 9-5 and 5-4 Wednesday and vaulted into a tie with St. Louis for second place in the National League just one game back of the leading Giants.

Rookie Ray Culp threw a three-hitter in leading Philadelphia to a 3-0 edge over the Cardinals; Smokey Burgess drove in the winning run in each game as Pittsburgh swept Cincinnati, 5-4 and 4-3; Milwaukee outlasted New York 11-9 in 10 innings and Los Angeles beat Houston 5-1 behind Sandy Koufax.

In the American League, Mickey Mantle broke a bone in his left foot in the New York Yankees' 4-3 victory over Baltimore and will be in a cast for two or three weeks. The victory moved New York into first place. Chicago and Los Angeles split, the White Sox winning the first 3-0, the Angels the second 8-2. Minnesota blanked Kansas City 4-0, Detroit edged Cleveland 5-4 and Boston at Washington game was rained out.

The Cubs' sweep of San Francisco made it 10 victories in their last 12 games and six of nine with the league leaders.

The Cubs lashed five home runs in the first game, but had to have a little luck to salvage the nightcap. Lou Brock scampers in from third with the tie-breaking run when the Giants' Chuck Hiller dropped a pop fly in short right field in the seventh.

Ernie Banks hit two homers in the first game, and Billy Williams, Ken Hubbs and Brock one each. For the Giants, Harvey Kuenn and Willie Mays had knee-gum homers, while Willie McCovey and Orlando Cepeda connected in the nightcap.

Culp, a $100,000 bonus right-hander for the Phils had allowed only a single by Ken Boyer through 8 2/3 innings against the Cardinals. Boyer then collected his second single and George Altman singled before the 22-year-old rookie struck out Julian Javier to end the game. The loss dropped the Cards to a share of second, one game off the pace.

The Pirates' Burgess broke a 4-4 tie with a pinch-hit single in the eighth inning of the first game and doubled in what proved to be the winner in the nightcap against the Reds.

The Dodgers' Koufax scattered eight hits and stroked a key single in a decisive three-run sixth inning against Houston. The victory, Koufax' eighth against three losses, pulled the Dodgers to within 1 1/2 games of the Giants.

Bubba Morton drove in two runs with a bases-loaded single in the 10th inning for the Braves' winning margin against the Mets. Milwaukee had blown a 9-1 lead behind Warren Spahn with the Mets scoring seven unearned runs in the sixth and tying it in the eighth.

John Knobs has had only four losing seasons in 39 years as head coach of the Michigan State baseball team.

The New York Yankees swept only three doubleheaders on their way to the 1962 pennant. They lost eight and split 10.

1,200 To Enter Ohio Trapshoot

VANDALIA, Ohio (AP) — The world's second largest trapshoot—the 77th Ohio championships—will be staged here next week with some 1,200 competitors due to go for the gold and glory.

The event is scheduled June 12-16 at the Amateur Trapshooting Association grounds where the Grand American, only clay target to eclipse the state meet in entrants, is held each August.

Last year the Buckeye barrage attracted entrants from 18 states and one of Canada's provinces. Aky, Gen. William B. Saxbe, president of the State Trapshooting Association, predicted today that half the states would be represented next week.

To accommodate the huge entry list 38 traps will be in action, and Saxbe said some 600,000 targets would be thrown. The program calls for 600 targets at 16 yards, 30 and handicaps and 100 doubles.

More than $25,000 in trophies and purse money will be handed out to the top gunners, along with $150 in prizes for wives and families of the contestants.

The big race is the handicap championship, set for Sunday,

June 16. It's a 100-target event, with the victor guaranteed $1,000 and a batch of silverware. Gerald Seger, 21-year-old Urbana cracker, took the handicap crown a year ago, and Helen Urban of Mentor led the ladies. Seger tied five others at 97 of 100, then broke 25 straight in the shootoff for his triumph.

Richard Bosse, 28 of Montville, Geauga County, won the 200-target singles a year ago, and Mrs. Van N. Marker of Versailles cracked 195 of 200 for the feminine crown. Bosse broke 200 straight to the veteran Joe Hiestand, the Hillsboro farmer, then outshot him 99 to 98 in the 100-clay extra heat.

Hiestand, who has won more state and national trapshooting titles than any other gunner, broke 99 of 100 in the doubles to take the unique twin-target event by four over John Sternberger of Trotwood. Hiestand also won the all-around title with 391 of 400, and the overall laurels with 770 of 800.

Unlike other sports, cash prizes may be won only by amateurs. The professionals—employees of mines—are limited to trophies only.

Youth Baseball Games Washed Out, Reslated

Rain, threatening to halt play in the Circleville youth baseball program all week, finally succeeded last night.

The three games scheduled — Jaycees vs IOOF and Rotary vs Savings Bank in the Little League minors and Coca Cola vs BPO Elks in the Little League majors — were all postponed.

Bob Wellington, coordinator of the summer baseball program, announced the Rotary-Savings Bank and the Coca Cola-BPOE tilts will be played 9 a. m. Saturday at Ted Lewis Park.

The Jaycee-IOOF game has been rescheduled for 5:15 p. m. Tuesday at the Fairgrounds Little League diamond.

The only National League player to wear uniform No. 13 is pitcher Dick Farrell of the Houston Colts. In the American League No. 13 is worn by outfielder Bill Tuttle of Minnesota and pitchers teve Barber of Baltimore and Bill Faul of Detroit.

Penn State's last losing football season came in 1938 when the Nittany Lions had a 3-4-1 record.

Teams Start Taking Comic Cubs Seriously

Funny Chicago Crew Beats Giants Twice, Are Tied for 2nd

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Chicago Cubs are acting just like they're serious about this game of baseball. Which, of course, just couldn't be.

Everyone knows the Cubs are a team you point at and giggle. Imagine, a nine-man coaching staff and, of all things, an athletic director. Sure, a million laughs.

Only, who's giggling? Certainly not the San Francisco Giants. Nor the rest of the National League. Nor, come to think about it, anyone but dyed-in-the-wool Cub fans.

The fired-up Cubs swept a doubleheader from the Giants 9-5 and 5-4 Wednesday and vaulted into a tie with St. Louis for second place in the National League just one game back of the leading Giants.

Rookie Ray Culp threw a three-hitter in leading Philadelphia to a 3-0 edge over the Cardinals; Smokey Burgess drove in the winning run in each game as Pittsburgh swept Cincinnati, 5-4 and 4-3; Milwaukee outlasted New York 11-9 in 10 innings and Los Angeles beat Houston 5-1 behind Sandy Koufax.

In the American League, Mickey Mantle broke a bone in his left foot in the New York Yankees' 4-3 victory over Baltimore and will be in a cast for two or three weeks. The victory moved New York into first place. Chicago and Los Angeles split, the White Sox winning the first 3-0, the Angels the second 8-2. Minnesota blanked Kansas City 4-0. Detroit edged Cleveland 5-4 and Boston at Washington game was rained out.

The Cubs' sweep of San Francisco made it 10 victories in their last 12 games and six of nine with the league leaders.

The Cubs lashed five home runs in the first game, but had to have a little luck to salvage the nightcap. Lou Brock scampered in from third with the tie-breaking run when the Giants' Chuck Hiller dropped a pop fly in short right field in the seventh.

Ernie Banks hit two homers in the first game, and Billy Williams, Ken Hubbs and Brock one each. For the Giants, Harvey Kuenn and Willie Mays had first-game homers, while Willie McCovey and Orlando Cepeda connected in the nightcap.

Culp, a $100,000 bonus right-hander for the Phils had allowed only a single by Ken Boyer through 8-2-3 innings against the Cardinals. Boyer then collected his second single and George Altman singled before the 22-year-old rookie struck out Julian Javier to end the game. The loss dropped the Cards to a share of second, one game off the pace.

The Pirates' Burgess broke a 4-4 tie with a pinch-hit single in the eighth inning of the first game and doubled in what proved to be the winner in the nightcap against the Reds.

The Dodgers' Koufax scattered eight hits and stroked a key single in a decisive three-run sixth inning against Houston. The victory, Koufax' eighth against three losses, pulled the Dodgers to within 1½ games of the Giants.

Bubba Morton drove in two runs with a bases-loaded single in the 10th inning for the Braves' winning margin against the Mets. Milwaukee had blown a 9-1 lead behind Warren Spahn with the Mets scoring seven unearned runs in the sixth and tying it in the eighth.

John Knobs has had only four losing seasons in 39 years as head coach of the Michigan State baseball team.

The New York Yankees swept only three doubleheaders on their way to the 1962 pennant. They lost eight and split 10.

1,200 To Enter Ohio Trapshoot

VANDALIA, Ohio (AP) — The world's second largest trapshoot—the 77th Ohio championships—will be staged here next week with some 1,200 competitors due to go for the gold and glory.

The event is scheduled June 12-16 at the Amateur Trapshooting Association grounds where the Grand American, only clay target to eclipse the state meet in entrants, is held each August.

Last year the Buckeye barrage attracted entrants from 18 states and one of Canada's provinces. Ady. Gen. William B. Saxbe, president of the State Trapshooting Association, predicted today that half the states would be represented next week.

To accommodate the huge entry list 38 traps will be in action, and Saxbe said some 600,000 targets would be thrown. The program calls for 600 targets at 16 yards, 30 and handicaps and 100 doubles.

More than $25,000 in trophies and purse money will be handed out to the top gunners, along with $150 in prizes for wives and families of the contestants.

The big race is the handicap championship, set for Sunday,

June 16. It's a 100-target event, with the victor guaranteed $1,000 and a batch of silverware. Gerald Seger, 21-year-old Urbana crackshot, took the handicap crown a year ago, and Helen Urban of Mentor led the ladies. Seger tied five others at 97 of 100, then broke 25 straight in the shootoff for his triumph.

Richard Bosse, 28 of Montville, Geauga County, won the 200-target singles a year ago, and Mrs. Van N. Marker of Versailles cracked 195 of 200 for the feminine crown. Bosse broke 200 straight to tie the veteran Joe Hiestand, the Hillsboro farmer, then outshot him 99 to 98 in the 100-clay extra heat.

Hiestand, who has won more state and national trapshooting titles than any other gunner, broke 99 of 100 in the doubles to take the unique twin-target event by four over John Sternberger of Trotwood. Hiestand also won the all-around title with 391 of 400, and the overall laurels with 770 of 800.

Unlike other sports, cash prizes may be won only by amateurs. The professionals — employees of mines — are limited to trophies only.

Youth Baseball Games Washed Out, Reslated

Rain, threatening to halt play in the Circleville youth baseball program all week, finally succeeded last night.

The three games scheduled — Jaycees vs IOOF and Rotary vs Savings Bank in the Little League minors and Coca Cola vs BPO Elks in the Little League majors — were all postponed.

Bob Wellington, coordinator of the summer baseball program, announced the Rotary-Savings Bank and the Coca Cola-BPOE tilts will be played 9 a. m. Saturday at Ted Lewis Park.

The Jaycee-IOOF game has been rescheduled for 5:15 p. m. Tuesday at the Fairgrounds Little League diamond.

The only National League player to wear uniform No. 13 is pitcher Dick Farrell of the Houston Colts. In the American League No. 13 is worn by outfielder Bill Tuttle of Minnesota and pitchers teve Barber of Baltimore and Bill Faul of Detroit.

Penn State's last losing football season came in 1938 when the Nittany Lions had a 3-4-1 record.

Replacement Now Pacing Tribe Hitters

CLEVELAND (AP) — Catcher Joe Azcue, who replaced injured John Romano, is turning into quite a slugger for the Cleveland Indians.

The 23-year-old Cuban was a standout at the plate Wednesday night although the Tribe lost 5-4 to the Detroit Tiger. He paced the Indian' 13-hit attack, driving in two runs with four singles.

Azcue's latest performance boosted his batting average to .389 since he took over for Romano, who broke a finger in a game against Baltimore May 26. He is now the Tribe's best hitter.

Other batting leaders for the Indians Wednesday were Fred Whitfield, a National League castoff who had three hits including a double, and right-fielder Al Luplow, who homered with the bases empty.

Righthander Jim (Mudcat),

Grant, the first of five Tribe hurlers, was the loser. His record is now 3-6. Jim Bunning (4-5) was the winner.

The loss snapped Cleveland's winning streak at three. The Indians are idle today but open a three-game road series

Friday against Washington. Catcher Cal Neeman, the Tribe's newest player, is expected to join the club in Washington.

Neeman, 34, was bought Wednesday from Tulsa of the Texas League for an undisclosed price.

1. Card of Thanks

In Memory of our sister, Bessie Humphries, who passed away a year ago June 6th, 1962. The one we loved was called away. Only those who have lost can tell the pain of passing without farewell. While you sleep a peaceful sleep, your memory we shall always keep. Sadly missed by sister and brothers.
In loving memory of our dear son, Donald Eugene Sabine, who passed away June 6, 1962.
This day brings sad memories. Of our loved one gone to rest. And those who think of him each day. Are the ones who loved him best. No one knows the silent heartaches. Only those who have lost can tell. Of the grief we bear in silence. For the one we loved so well. Of our hearts your memory lingers. Always tender and true. There is not a day that don't we think of you.
Sadly missed by Mother, Dad and sister, Yvonne.

Ashville Area Due for Base Rate Expansion

Expansion of the base rate area in the Ashville community to include South Bloomfield and Millport takes effect Oct. 1, resulting in the elimination of rural lines for customers in the two areas, the General Telephone Co. of Ohio announced today.

About 135 phone users are affected, according to Donald Colegrove of Circleville, district commercial manager, South Bloomfield and Millport are served out of the Ashville exchange.

Lower phone bills for some customers will stem from elimination of mileage charges for those having four, two or one party service outside the base rate area. Mileage is charged according to distance from the base rate boundary of Ashville, Colegrove said.

Chief areas included in the expansion are the corporate limits of South Bloomfield, the community of Millport and both sides of Route 316 between Ashville and South Bloomfield.

Changing of some phone numbers will be necessary in connection with this move, said Colegrove. Customers affected will be notified. The changes will appear in the October, 1963, Circleville phone directory.

This expansion is a part of General Telephone's effort to keep pace with community growth. Colegrove noted. Ashville exchange covers 96.9 square miles in Pickaway County, serving about 1,400 phones.

Harsha Seeking Vo Ed Expansion

William H. Harsha, Ohio Sixth District Congressman, today announced he had called upon the House Committee on Education and Labor to expand the vocational educational law to include seventh and eighth grade students.

Congressman Harsha said a great many students are dropping out of schools before they finish their secondary education. "These students," he said, "have neither the education nor training to obtain adequate employment; consequently, they find themselves either in the ranks of the unemployed or in the files of juvenile courts throughout the nation."

The lawmaker said, "if these students were given adequate vocational training, it would help curb juvenile delinquency and relieve the burden on unemployment compensation funds."
